A Trust Company

is a financial institution with a wide range of activities. It can be of service to you in many different ways.

It receives money on deposit against which checks may be drawn in exactly the same manner as on accounts in national banks, and it pays interest on such deposits.

It maintains safe deposit vaults where valuables may be kept safely and with absolute privacy.

It acts as executor or trustee, administrator or guardian.

It acts as agent in the management of estates of every kind—investing funds, selling property, collecting income, paying taxes, and other obligations.

The Old Colony Trust Company is the largest trust company in New England. Its main office is in the Ames Building, in the business district, and it has a branch office at 52 Temple Place, in the heart of the shopping district, arranged with a view to the convenience of its patrons—particularly of women and of those who live out of town.

A pamphlet illustrating and describing the Temple Place office will be mailed on request.

At a meeting of the board of public works Saturday evening, Jan. 28th, it was alleged that the Boston Elevated Railway Company was using more salt on their tracks than the law allows, and it was voted to investigate the matter.

Arlington friends of the "Bankers" attended the rehearsal of the 1905 show, on Thursday afternoon. Mr. A. Oswald Yeames is one of the chorus girls, Mr. Harold Yeames is in the cast, and Mr. Frank Buhlert, also of Arlington, is "in it."

The Twenty-one Associates have issued tickets, this week, for their second dance and assembly of the season. It will take place Thursday evening, Feb. 9th, in Associates Hall. There have been so few dances this season this ought to be a great success.

Mr. O. W. Whittemore has kindly undertaken the sale of the course tickets for the four lectures on Versailles, by Prof. de Sumichrast. They are placed at the unusually low price of $1.00—making it within the power of all who delight in such an artistic and literary treat to attend.

WINTER EATING RUINS STOMACHS.

"Now Is the Time You Need Mi-o-na," Says O. W. Whittemore.

Think for a moment of the extra strain you put upon the stomach in the winter. The hearty food, the late suppers, and the lack of exercise and outdoor life all weaken and strain the stomach, laying the foundation for poor health and suffering.

Chronic stomach troubles, nervous irritability and serious bowel and kidney diseases have often dated from a week of extra "good living." Nearly everyone is bothered with more or less headaches and backaches, furred tongue, poor appetite, dry, hacking cough, heartburn, spots before the eyes, dizziness or vertigo, sleeplessness, lack of energy, loss of flesh or a general weak, tired feeling.

Now is the time when Mi-o-na is needed to repair the ravages and wastes the hearty eating of winter has caused in the stomach and digestive system. This is the only known agent that strengthens the stomach and digestive organs, so they can and will readily digest whatever food is eaten. A Mi-o-na tablet taken before each meal will remove all irritation, inflammation and congestion in the digestive organs, and so strengthen them that they will extract from the food all that goes to make good, rich blood, firm muscle, and a sound, healthy body.

This remarkable remedy costs but 50 cents, and if its use does not restore your full vigor, vitality and health, O. W. Whittemore, one of the best known druggists in this section, will refund your money. Unbounded faith like this deserves your confidence.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hubbard arrived home Wednesday from a three weeks' sojourn in the south, both greatly improved in health.

We regret to learn of the painful accident that Mrs. A. H. Knowles of Wyman street, sustained while shopping in Boston on Thursday. She was accidentally thrown down while leaving a well known store and received a severe shock.

Geo. Lowell Tracy, famed for coaching in "musical shows" and sketches, has been engaged to have charge of the Arlington Boat Club 1905 musical sketch and vaudeville which is on the way and will be one of the local events of the season.

There will be a meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. John's Church at the Parish House, on Tuesday, February 9th, at 3 o'clock. A paper on the missionary work in Alaska will be read. All women are cordially invited to be present.

W. W. Rawson & Co., seedmen, 12-13 Faneuil Hall Sq., Boston, have issued their catalogue for 1905. It has beautiful embossed covers in colors, the design and arrangement as well as color scheme being most artistic. It makes a book of one hundred and twenty pages, full of information to all kinds of "growers."

The grip has had many victims within the past few days. Mr. Grey Homer has been quite seriously sick with it and Mr. C. S. Parker was in the house for a week with it, getting back to the office this week. Members of Mr. S. F. Hicks' family, of Mr. E. C. Turner's, and many others, have been victims.

The musical service at Pleasant St. Cong. church, Sunday, will be as follows: Organ Prelude, Gleason Anthem, "I will extol Thee, my God, O King," Frey Anthem, "Abide with me," Barnby Offertory, Impromptu, Leschetizky Soprano Solo, Gade Postlude.

The February meeting of the Winthrop Club, an association of ministers in this neighborhood, of which Rev. S. C. Bushnell of this town is the secretary, will be held on Monday next, Feb. 6th. The meetings are held at Young's Hotel, Boston. The paper will be on "Italy since 1870," and will be read by Rev. Mr. Calkins.

This (Friday) evening, Rev. Sam'l C. Bushnell, of Arlington, is to be one of the specially invited speakers to address the annual meeting and banquet of the Yale College Association of Hartford, Conn., in that city. The association numbers three hundred and a splendid corps of speakers has been secured to enliven the occasion.

Class '06 of Arlington High had a sleighing party, Thursday evening, and so ended of a good time. On their return they were entertained at the residence of Mrs. Samuel D. Hicks on Pleasant street with supper. The committee, consisting of Misses Helen Allen, Helen Pettigill and Henry Reed, managed the evening with perfect success.

The regular meeting of the A. V. F. A. occurs this Friday night, Feb. 3. We are informed by the entertainment committee that there will be a first class entertainment and supper after the regular business has been disposed of. Frank Cavanaugh, the Vets' friend and entertainer, will be on hand and it is hoped he will receive a cordial welcome.

The music at the Baptist church, Sunday, will be:— Voluntary, 10.30, a. m. (Prelude, Hesse Aria in D, Bach Anthem, Te deum in B flat minor, Foote Anthem, "Hast thou not known," Pfleger Response, "Heart, be still," Warren Offertory, Melody, Heller Anthem, "Spirit of God! descend upon my heart," Bixby Postlude, Offertoire in B flat, Dubois)

There will be a prayer meeting at Pleasant St. Cong. church, this (Friday) evening, instead of the continuance of the special discourses Rev. Mr. Bushnell began with the opening of the new year. The meeting this evening will be, in a measure, preparatory to the advent in Boston of W. J. Dawson, who has been conducting the notable revival meetings in Wales, England, and is to conduct similar meetings in this part of the world.

Other Arlington friends will doubtless be as distressed as we were to learn of the unexpected death of Mrs. Piffier, wife of Prof. Piffier, of Cambridge, who died under peculiarly heart-breaking circumstances. Mrs. Piffier was at one time reckoned as one of the brightest women in Arlington's Woman Club, and gave one or two charming talks on art and her experiences during tours abroad, before the club. Their last residence in Arlington was on the corner of Medford and Warren streets.

The following is the musical program at the Unitarian church, next Sunday forenoon:— Organ Prelude, "Vespil," Wagner Anthem, "Cantante Domino," Puck Soprano and Tenor Duet, Soprano and Alto Duet, Bass Solo and Quartet. Selection, "Blessed be thou, O Lord," Falkenstein Response, "But the Lord is mindful of his own," Alto Solo, Mendelssohn Organ Postlude, Polonaise, Godard The choir will be assisted by Mrs. Martha Lufkin Coombs, of Lewiston, Maine, contralto soloist.

The goodly number of seventy was present at the meeting of the Historical Society in Wellington Hall, Tuesday eve.

ing, in spite of the cold weather and gripe patients in almost every family. Rev. F. Frank Waters, of Ipswich, read, as announced, a paper on "The homes of the Puritans." The paper abounded in considerable data and statistics and described the primitive home life in the early days of the colonies, when everything had to be home-made and with the hands or imported from England. It was very kind of Mr. Waters to come here and give to us the result of his research and it was greatly appreciated.

At the annual election of Bay State, L. O. L., the following officers were chosen: Daniel Dillon, W. M.; Frank McKenzie, D. M.; Malcolm A. Ross, rec. sec.; James Crammond, treas.; Joseph Siggen, D. of C.; William Wadman, I. T.; John Smith, O. T.; Angus Campbell, F. of C.; John C. Waage, trustee for three years; Malcolm A. Ross, trustee for two years; James C. Tingley, trustee for one year. It was voted to conduct a whist party in G. A. R. Hall on the evening of Feb. 13.

The officers of Local Branch No. 741 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America for the ensuing year will be: George McKay, pres.; John Mandigo, vice-pres.; R. H. Johnson, rec. sec.; Malcolm A. Ross, treas.; J. R. Longbottom, con.; Eon Durling, warden. Wednesday evening the members held a whist party in K. of C. Hall, and had a pleasant social time. Mrs. M. A. Ross took the prize for most number of moves, while other prize winners were Mr. Sam'l P. Clough, Mrs. R. H. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald, Mrs. L. Makin, Mr. A. F. Lewis.

Sunday services at St. John's church, Academy street: 10.30, morning prayer, holy communion and sermon; 7.30, evening prayer and sermon. A class for Bible study for young men is held after morning service. The class, owing to lack of room in the church, is held by the kindness of Mrs. Elwell, at No. 14 Pelham terrace, and is in charge of Mr. N. B. Groton, of Harvard College. Mr. Groton and Mr. Paul R. Temple, his coadjutor, are licensed by the Bishop as lay-readers in St. John's parish. Mr. Groton is son of Dean Groton of the Divinity School, Philadelphia.

At 4, p. m., Saturday, the Pleasant street firehouse was aroused by the alarm of fire from Box 35, corner of this street and Addison street. It was an insignificant blaze, however, and the call hardly necessary. It was caused by the igniting of some oily rags hung in the cellar-way in the double house at the foot of Addison street, formerly known as the Addison Gage mansion. The premises had just been vacated by Mrs. Stimpson and family, who have moved to Cambridge. The estate is owned by Elexis Cutting, of Winchester. It was surprising to see how quickly a crowd will assemble when there is a fire. They came flocking from all directions.

Mrs. Sophia, widow of the late Wm. T. Wood, died last Wednesday night at the residence of her son, Mr. Wm. E. Wood, on Jason street. For a long time Mrs. Wood has been an invalid and her death did not surprise those who have watched over her with such solicitude and made her declining years so pleasant in her son's home. Mrs. Wood was a sister of Mrs. John S. Crosby of Mystic St., also Capt. Stephen P. Blake, of Lake Helen, Fla., and Mr. E. Nelson Blake, Pres. of 1st Nat'l Bank, while her family connections touch several of our most prominent families.—Wymans, Crosbys, etc. The funeral occurs at 2.30 o'clock, Saturday, Feb. 4, from 27 Jason street.

Last Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock, in Wellington Hall, the ladies of the Together Lend-a-Hand held a tea and cake sale. This club has a wide circle of friends which makes whatever they undertake almost an assured success. This sale was such and the stock in trade was entirely sold out at the close of the afternoon. To be sure it was of delicious quality. A goodly sum was made for the club's benevolent fund. Mrs. E. S. Fessenden, Mrs. Chas. F. Coolidge, Mrs. O. W. Whittemore and Mrs. G. S. Cushman were the committee having the sale of cake in charge. Tea was served by Mrs. Bott, Mrs. C. W. Allen, Mrs. Geo. O. Russell.

Another one of those pleasant social affairs was given Tuesday afternoon, in Wellington Hall, by the Clover Lend-a-Hand. It was a charity whist, the proceeds of which are to go to the Central Lend-a-Hand Society, in Boston. The hall was filled with tables and nearly all were occupied by friends of the Club who enjoy this pleasant pastime and were interested in contributing to the treasury of the same. The committee of arrangements, Mrs. W. G. Rice (president), Mrs. H. W. Reed, Mrs. Wm. Marsden, Mrs. Homer Davis, and Miss Holway provided delicious fruit punch. Flowers were given as prizes for the highest scores and were awarded to Mrs. Otis R. Whittemore and Mrs. Moses Colman.

Prof. F. C. de Sumichrast's course of lectures is given in behalf of the Ways and Means Committee of the Woman's Club, which department, it will be recalled, started out several years ago to furnish the public schools with an art department. This took the form of purchasing pictures, casts and photographs, all suitably mounted or framed, to be hung in the numerous rooms of the six public schools of Arlington. The plan was comprehensive, well conceived, and thus far has been skillfully executed. Miss Ida F. Robbins, who is a member of the Ways and Means Committee and who took the initiative in this matter, has been indisposed so seriously the last month or more that she has been unable to do anything towards increasing the fund for this year's purchase, but her sister, Miss Cairn, who is well versed in art and kindred interests, has kindly assumed the responsibility of managing the course, under the auspices of the Wo-

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Lard and Peanuts.

At the beginning of last summer a certain well known literary woman in the west repaired to the shores of one of the lakes of Michigan, there to prepare her cottage for occupancy during the heated term. Before going she had arranged with her husband to cause a lot of household goods to be packed and forwarded by steamer.

It appears that for some reason the shipment was delayed and that the lady was obliged to write to her husband inquiring with reference to the delay. In conclusion she had appended to her letter a postscript reading, "Please telegraph me when the goods shall have been shipped."

Pursuant to instructions, the husband personally supervised the packing of the various effects needed for the cottage in Michigan, even going down to the dock to see that they were duly conveyed on board the steamer. Moreover, as requested by his wife, he telegraphed what he had done. "Lares and peanuts on board," wired he; "will arrive tomorrow morning."

When his wife received the telegram she read:

"Lard and peanuts on board; will arrive tomorrow morning."—Harper's Weekly.

Following Advice.

"Really, Mr. Hanson," said the fair girl, "I'm shocked to hear you confess such behavior in your business dealings. You should always do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

"You wouldn't have me do that always."

"Certainly," she replied; "always."

"All right. Here goes!" he cried and kissed her.—Philadelphia Press.

Unfortunates.

Mrs. Greene—I should think you'd feed your boarders a little better. You can't expect them to say a good word for you when they leave.

Mrs. Skinner—Oh, but they do. Almost every one of them has a grudge against some friend of his, and he invariably recommends my house to him. I get lots of new boarders that way.—Boston Transcript.

Had to Wait His Turn.

Schoolteacher—What! You say that you are late because you have been to get your hair cut? But you're nearly an hour behind time.

Scholar—Please, sir, there was another man before me.

In Case of Failure.

"But," said the young man who had just been admitted to the bar, "suppose my practice should be a failure—then what?"

"Well," replied the old lawyer encouragingly, "there is politics that is always open to you. Remember, there are 236 lawyers in our house of representatives and quite a few in our senate."—Judge.

Between Friends.

"I asked George if he thought you were pretty, and he said the word pretty couldn't describe you."

"How nice!"

"I'm afraid you don't understand me, dear. I asked him what word would describe you and he replied that he would rather not say."—Detroit Tribune.

His Benevolent Scheme.

"I'm going to endow one of the universities," said the millionaire—"going to establish a chair."

"Chair of what?" asked his friend.

"Well, I don't know what you'd call it for short, but it's a chair that's badly needed—a chair to teach graduates how to get a job."—Brooklyn Life.

Disastrous.

"He's very refined. At dinner he never blows his soup."

"What does he do when it's hot?"

"Waits for it to cool."

"Well, I tried that, ah! the hired girl come an' took my plate away afore I got a single spoonful."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Schemer.

Merryman—I always keep my wife provided with good reading matter.

Clusky—Any particular reason?

Merryman—Yes; it keeps her amused so that when she sits up at night waiting for me to come home she doesn't care how late I stay out!—Detroit Free Press.

A One Sided Sentiment.

"There is no use of a man being proud of his ancestors," said the affable man.

"No," answered Miss Cayenne. "In numerous cases the ancestors would not reciprocate if they had a chance."—Washington Star.

Always in the Market.

Jinks—Why do these millionaires dress so shabbily?

Winks—So folks will take pity on 'em and buy their watered stocks.—New York Weekly.

FRENCH CONSCRIPTS.

Marked by Bad Clothes and an Absence of Baggage.

"They are a curious crowd," says a writer describing the conscripts of the French army. "These boys of twenty and of twenty-one, in various stages of sobriety, as they throng on to the platforms of the railway stations and, under the fire of gentle and superior sarcasm from the young men in uniform who have already done a year or two, climb into the third class cattle pens which are to take them to the threshold of their lives in barracks. The sons of wealthy men elbow the scourgings of the street."

"All wear their worst clothes, except those who do not possess a second suit. The chief peculiarity about the whole of them is an entire absence of luggage. A young friend of my own was one of them. His luggage for the two days of his first visit to Paris consisted of a comb and an extremely aged toothbrush, and before leaving Paris he asked me to keep his overcoat for him till he returned. 'They will only spoil it, and it is a new one,' was his plea."

"I counted the valises of a whole train load of conscripts who accompanied my friend, and they numbered exactly four. 'Those four will have their lives teased out of them tomorrow,' was the verdict of a private under arms upon the platform."

ANIMAL STRIKERS.

Both Birds and Beasts Occasionally Refuse to Work.

Both birds and beasts occasionally go on strike, according to observers. A herd of horses will bunch together, neglect their food, become restive, neigh and rub noses when in a field. The outcome is that the herd will not allow themselves to be saddled or harnessed and will chase and attempt to kick the attendants. Female birds take tantrums and refuse to do the housework. They desert their nests and leave their eggs to become cold and barren. The male naturally becomes greatly concerned, but with the bird and beast creation the male will never attack the female, so there is no remedy. Warblers and starlings are given greatly to these strikes.

A species of black ants have little yellow ants which do most of their work for them. Occasionally the yellow species will go on a strike. Their food supply is cut off, but if that does not avail the strikers are attacked or another lot of yellow ants are secured.

Even the rabbit is a hardened striker. In rabbit colonies the stronger rabbits do most of the burrowing, and as often as perhaps once in two years these become discontented and refuse to work.

BOILING WATER.

Why a Redhot Poker Does Not Cause It to Boil.

If a redhot poker be thrust into cold water it hisses and sputters; if into boiling water, there is no commotion.

When in the first experiment cold water comes in contact with the hot iron there is a sudden and explosive generation of steam, which causes the liquid to be scattered with a hissing noise, consequent upon the bursting of innumerable bubbles.

When, on the other hand, a poker is thrust into boiling water, which is already freely giving forth steam, the introduction of the hot iron by still further assisting steam production causes the poker to become at once surrounded by a sheath of vapor, which effectually prevents the water from coming into actual contact with the metal.

This sheath of vapor is comparatively a bad conductor of heat, so that but little passes from the iron to the water. There is no commotion, and the poker can be withdrawn still glowing brightly.—London Answers.

An Irish King of Portugal.

An Irishman was once king of Portugal, or at least he once ruled in the king's stead over that country. In November, 1640, there was a revolution in Portugal, brought about by the tyrannical exactions of Miguel Vasconcellos, the secretary of state. The hated minister was shot and the vice queen, Margaret of Savoy, abdicated. The crown was offered to the Duke of Braganza, who was living at Villavieiosa. Meanwhile, until the duke should accept the crown, the people of Lisbon elected a popular and influential Irish merchant, named John Darcy, who resided in the city, as their nominal king. Darcy accepted the honor conferred upon him and bore the title of "king of Portugal" from Dec. 1 to Dec. 6, 1640.

Living Stones.

The visitor to the Falkland Isles sees scattered here and there singular shaped blocks of what appear to be weathered and moss covered boulders in various sizes. Attempt to turn one of these boulders over, and you will meet with a real surprise, because the stone is actually anchored by roots of great strength; in fact, you will find that you are trifling with one of the native trees. No other country in the world has such a peculiar "forest" growth.

Hopeless Case.

"Do you enjoy classical music?" asked the young woman.

"Yes, miss," answered Mr. Cumrox; "I enjoy it much, but I never can get over the idea that the tunes would sound better if they were played by a mandolin or banjo club."—Washington Star.

Nearer the Mark.

Briggs—Do you believe that the world is divided into two classes—those who borrow and those who lend? Gregory—No, sir; my experience is that two other classes are much more prevalent—those who want to borrow and those who won't lend.

Short Lived Bachelors.

"Do bachelors die young? Do they die earlier than married men?" asked a single man. "It would seem so. I was just reading a report which seems to argue strongly in favor of the matrimonial idea. The report shows that the mortality among bachelors from the age of thirty to forty-five years is said to be 27 per cent, while among married men of the same age it is 18 per cent. For forty-one bachelors who attain the age of forty years there are seventy-eight married men who attain the same age. The difference is still more striking in persons of advanced age. At sixty years of age there remain but twenty-two bachelors for forty-eight married men, at seventy years eleven bachelors for twenty-seven married men and at eighty years three bachelors for nine married men. These figures seem to indicate that the best thing for a man to do is to get him a wife and shake wearing cares of bachelorhood. We all want to live as long as possible and live happily if we can. Some bachelors are reasonably happy. But all of them are not. Get married. That's the proper caper."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Michael Angelo's Work.

Michael Angelo relied almost entirely upon form—the form of the figure and of the draperies. He told Pope Julian II., when the latter requested him to paint the ceiling of the Sistine chapel at Rome, that he was not a painter, but a sculptor; yet, after he had shut himself up for four years—from 1508 to 1512—and the scaffold was removed, a result had been achieved which is without parallel in the world. Very wonderful is the work which Michael Angelo spread over this vast area of 10,000 square feet. The fact that there are 343 principal figures, many of colossal size, besides a great number of others introduced for decorative effect, and that the creator of this vast scheme was only thirty-three when he began his work—all this is marvelous, prodigious, and yet not so marvelous as the variety of expression in the figures of which Jeremiah is only one figure in a small side arch.—Charles H. Caffin in St. Nicholas.

The Cruelty of Pate de Foie Gras.

To eat pate de foie gras is luxury, but to prepare the delicacy for the table is prolonged torture—for the goose. The Humanitarian league of England has issued a pamphlet on the subject. "We behold," says an eyewitness, "innumerable geese in this torture chamber, bound fast to the table. They lie on their backs as if crucified. We watched how the women pressed some new victims against the tables so that the hinder parts should hang over the edge." Two months of torture for the geese are considered necessary before its liver is sufficiently diseased to be marketable. The fowls are fed to repletion with salted matze, and by this means the liver is increased to the abnormal weight of two or even three pounds. Strassburg and Toulouse are the chief places of manufacture and the trade amounts to several hundred thousand dollars annually.

A Formula for Marriage.

The Frankfurter Zeitung has discovered a formula for marriage. Nothing is more certain, it says, than that this formula is right. The question asked is what age should a man's bride be? The formula is: Let  $x$  be the man's age. Then  $x-2+7$ =bride's age. For example, a man is 34; the half of his age is 17; then 17 plus 7 is 24. The bride's age should be 24. For a man of 34, therefore, the proper age for his wife is 24. Take the man of 60.  $x=60$   $+2-30+7$ . The man of 60 must marry a woman of 37. For the juvenile marriages of southern latitudes the formula is equally valid. The hot blooded Castilian, for example, of 18 wishes to marry. The formula says  $x=18+2-9+7=16$ . His wife should be 16 years old.

The Edge of a Windstorm.

A curious example of how sharply the edge of a windstorm may be defined is reported by the captain of a bark. When off Valparaiso, the captain says, a whirlwind came along and passed over the stern of the vessel. A great sea accompanied the wind, and every sail and movable thing on the after part of the ship was carried away. The forward part of the vessel was untouched by the storm, which passed away in the distance, leaving a train of foam in its wake.

Eight Arrows in the Air at Once.

"There is a purely Indian exploit which is recognized as a test of fast shooting," says Mr. Ernest Thompson Seton in Country Life in America. "In this the 'honor' is allowed the archer who can have six arrows in the air at once and the 'high honor' for seven. The Indian record is eight, but not many Indians have made it."

Out of Harm's Way.

"What the deuce are you doing on the top of that tree, Mike? Don't you know that it's being cut down?" Mike—Yes, your honor. The last time ye had a tree cut down it fell on top of me, and, begorra, O'll be safe this time!—London Tit-Bits.

A Genius.

"Your mother-in-law never pays you a long visit," said one man to another. "How is that?"

"She did once, but I got my mother to come on a visit at the same time."

Susan's Accomplishments.

Mr. Hayrake—Well, Susan must be studying! art. Mrs. Hayrake—Land sakes! Mr. Hayrake—Yes; she says, "I am writing this letter in my drawing room."—Chicago News.

Fourth Grace.

Faith, hope and charity should crowd closer and make room for gratitude.—Atchison Globe.

CHOICE MISCELLANY

A Clever Roman Thief.

A clever robbery has just taken place in Rome. One day a spruce young man presented himself to the portress of a house, asking for one of the tenants. On hearing that she had been absent for some days he replied: "Yes, I know. She was taken ill in the street and was sent to the hospital. I am a police officer sent to take an inventory of the contents of the flat. Just come up with me." And he showed her what he called his authorization. On the way up he said that he must have two other witnesses, and when these came the four of them went carefully over everything, taking a minute inventory, forcing open drawers and cupboards, nothing being sacred from them. When this was done the three witnesses signed the inventory, and the "police officer" went off, carrying with him titles and bonds to the value of several thousands of francs, to be deposited in safety at the police headquarters. That same night the tenant returned, to be greeted with great surprise by the portress, who exclaimed:

"What! Back so soon? And how are you? Did they treat you well?"

"Treat me well!" exclaimed the other. "What do you mean? Do you think I have been in a lunatic asylum?"

"Well, a hospital is just as bad, isn't it?"

"It may be," said the tenant, "but I know nothing of either."

"Why, were you unconscious all the time?"

And so on until the situation was made clear. She had been visiting friends. She hurried upstairs alarmed, to find all her little savings gone and no trace of the thief except the confusion which he had left behind.—Pall Mall Gazette.

King Edward's Private Secretary.

Should you by any chance receive an autograph letter from King Edward or Queen Alexandra the royal signature may be there, but they know nothing of the contents beyond the fact of having said to their secretaries, "Write this and so."

To be the private secretary of popular sovereigns is no sinecure. Fifty or sixty letters a day is the average of her majesty's correspondence, while the king's duty is doubled by state papers for his signature, which no one, of course, can save him the labor of writing. Royalty reads a letter and often limits its supervision to a laconic no or yes scrawled on the margin. Then Lord Knollys and Miss Knollys, the queen's confidant, will take it and do the rest.

King Edward's skillful right hand man expands this into the diplomatic style with which most people are familiar and long believed direct royal dictation. Such very private notes as the king and queen do send to their families or intimates are discreetly burned or buried in archives, from which it would be leze majesty to unearth them.—Boston Herald.

China's Coal Fields.

China's resources of coal and iron are among the largest and most favorably situated in the world. The extent of the great coal fields has been put at 400,000 square miles—twice the area of France and more than seventy times the aggregate extent of all the coal fields of Britain. Of the quality of the deposits much has yet to be learned, but the distinguished German geologist, Baron von Richtofen, reported many years ago that both the anthracite and the bituminous varieties were equal to the best produced in Europe. It is expected that very soon Chinese coal will be delivered at far eastern ports at prices with which no other coal can possibly compete and that China in consequence of this development will become a large exporter of iron.—Engineering.

Why Gibbs Deserted.

Tessie Gibbs, Benjamin's wife, appeared before Judge Dunne in Chicago, as it is related by the Record-Herald, and asked for a divorce on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Gibbs was dramatic when she took the stand.

"Why did he desert me?" she demanded. "Why, for no other reason than because he got weary of me; he felt tired of home, and he wanted to wander around the country. After he had left me I met him on the street one day. I stopped. So did he."

"Mr. Gibbs," says I, "why don't you come home?"

"Don't talk to me of such things," says he. "I've got some money for coffee and sandwiches, and I'm sleeping in the cars. It's fine."

Fish Shoals Found by Telephone.

The latest use of the telephone is in locating shoals of fish. The electric apparatus is a German patent. A microphone inclosed in a water tight case connected with an electric battery and telephone is lowered into the water. So long as the telephone hangs free no sound is heard, but on its coming into contact with a shoal of fish the constant tapping of the fish against the microphone case produces a series of sounds which at once betrays their presence. The cord attached to the microphone is marked so that the exact depth of the shoal is designated.

It Rained Geese.

Though Hungary can never hope to compete with America in tallness of anecdote, the following effort is not bad: It is reported from a village in that country that the inhabitants have been kept indoors by a heavy shower of wild geese. It is supposed that the birds flew from a moist layer of atmosphere to a cold one, got their wings frozen and were unable to fly.—London Globe.

Long and Short Letters.

Sherwin Cody in his "Training Course in Correct English, Business Correspondence and Advertisement Writing" lays down some rules as to the length of business letters. He says:

"Write a long letter to—

"A farmer.

"A woman.

"A customer who has asked you a question.

"A customer who is angry and needs quieting down and will be made only more angry if you seem to slight him.

"A man who is interested, but must be convinced before he will buy your goods.

"Write a short letter to—

"A busy business man.

"An indifferent man on whom you want to make a sharp impression.

"A person who has written you about a trivial matter for which he cares little.

"A man who wants only a record or a piece of information.

"A person who needs only the slightest reminder of something he has forgotten or overlooked."

Flattery and Flatterers.

"We sometimes fancy we hate flattery, when in truth it is the manner of it we dislike," said La Rochefoucauld. Stripped of its cynicism, the saying comes to this—that while praise is eternally pleasant there are fashions in flattery, and those fashions change very completely. Flattery is innocent or despicable, not according to whether or not it oversteps the limits of the accurate, but whether or not it proceeds from an interested or a disinterested motive.

There are moments when a true statement of honorific fact made for the selfish purpose of the speaker may be gross flattery, while an exaggerated speech may be justified by its good intention. The real question is not what was said, but why it was said. That is the only test by which we can divide the contemptible from the harmless kind. Surely there is less of the worse sort than there was, or do we but flatter ourselves?—London Spectator.

Our Congress.

When comparisons are made between America and continental Europe we can find much of which to be proud. Our growth, our wealth, our industries, our resources, our energy, all make flattering comparison with average European conditions. But I believe in making such comparisons there is no one thing of which we have the right to be more proud than of the congress of the United States. Better than any continental parliament, it represents the people. The one legislative body of the world that is in any way comparable to ours is the parliament of Great Britain. In character, intellect, methods, dignity and in the truthfulness with which each represents the people the British parliament and the United States congress stand in a class quite apart and above any of the parliaments of continental Europe.—Frank A. Vanderlip in Scribner's.

Half a Face Missing.

"It is not an uncommon thing," says a man who has hunted in central Africa, "to meet a native with half of his face missing, and when you ask him how it happened he will tell you that a hyena snapped at him while he was asleep. It is marvelous how they recover from such wounds, as the teeth of the animal must be poisonous, and the natives have no antiseptics and a very crude way of treating wounds. When a 'nisi,' as the natives call it, comes round the camp howling, the 'boys' shout all sorts of vile names at it. But very often the animal makes no noise whatever, and not till next morning is the loss of something discovered."

Superstitious Parnell.

Miss Charlotte McCarthy, daughter of Justin McCarthy, told a curious story of Charles Stewart Parnell. "One evening," says she, "Parnell was talking to me at the coffee stage of dinner, and I, gazing at him with rapture, was vaguely stirring mine and going to drink it when he said: 'You must not drink that. You have stirred it the wrong way, and it would be unlucky. Get another cup.' What struck me as strange in this was not his being superstitious—every one who knew him at all knew that—but his extraordinary power of observation."

The Woman of Kentucky.

The Kentucky woman is simply the Venus of Milo in warm healthy flesh, with grace in all her motions and when in love heaven in her eye. She has the American capacity to adapt herself to fresh conditions. Her nerves have not been set on an edge by Atlantic east winds, and she has a broad and sympathetic nature.—London Truth.

In Spite of the Song.

"Are you fond of music?" asked a stranger of the young man at the concert, who was applauding vigorously after a pretty girl had sung a song in a very painful way.

"Not particularly," replied the young man frankly, "but I am extremely fond of the musician."

A Great Composer.

Ethel—Who was that man you just bowed to? Penelope—That was Dobson, the great composer. Ethel—A composer, did you say? Penelope—He manufactures soothing sirup.

Friends and Foes.

Dear to me is the friend, yet can I make even my very foe do me a friend's part. My friend shows me what I can do; my foe teaches me what I should do.—Schiller.

To act with common sense according to the moment is the best wisdom I know.—Walpole.

NEW SHORT STORIES

Dog's Troubles Were Light.

There was a visitor to the gentlemen's senate gallery the other afternoon while Senator Dillingham was walking up and down the narrow passageways between the desks.

"I have been to that man's town," said the visitor to a friend. "It's cold, gloomy and cheerless looking, though there is a lot of wealth there and hundreds of warm hearted, generous people. Over at White River Junction, a little way from Montpelier, I stopped at the little hotel, the only one there, whence originated the story that Private John Allen has used so effectively. The landlord was out in front, vigorously ringing the dinner bell. From down the road in the distance he saw a commercial traveler kicking up the dust with his heavy shoes and heavier load of samples. A hound dog, his melancholy surroundings and thoughts accentuated by the clanging of the bell, was baying, howling, yelping, wailing to beat the band as the drummer walked up.

"SHUT UP," HE SAID.

"Shut up," he said, with some petulance, to the dog. "You don't have to eat here. You can go to a neighbor's."—New York American.

A Strong Inducement.

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania celebrated his birthday recently in Philadelphia. A Philadelphian during a congratulatory call said of him:

"I remember Penrose's entrance into politics when he was a boy of twenty-four. He won the liking of Senator Quay by a quaint little speech that he made to the Republican leader during the presentation of a petition.

"This petition was laid before Mr. Quay by a delegation whose spokesman was insufferably long winded and tedious. The man talked to the senator nearly an hour. Every one stood during his speech, and it seemed that it would never end.

"When finally it did end Mr. Quay asked wearily if there were any further reasons for the granting of the petition that the delegates had to offer.

"Penrose, tall and straight and boyish, smiled and said in a low voice:

"If you don't grant it, sir, we'll have that speech repeated all over again to you."—San Antonio Express.

Burying the Hatchet.

Mr. William M. Chase, the New York artist who was one of the very few real friends the late James Abbott MacNeill Whistler ever possessed, says that he was once remonstrating with that eccentric artist with reference to his unjustifiably belligerent attitude to nearly everything and everybody. Mr. Chase himself had on more than one occasion been a target for the friendship breaking remarks of the author of "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies."

So it was with some warmth that he remarked to Whistler:

"Really, I must say you are incorrigible. It would seem that with you, Whistler, there is never a time to bury the hatchet."

"You are quite mistaken," responded Whistler in the blandest way. "There is often a time to bury the hatchet—in the side of the enemy. Then we should think of him no more."—Collier's Weekly.

Measuring Space.

James Whitcomb Riley, who occasionally visits country schools in the Hoosier State, once gave a brief address on the subject of the stars. At the conclusion of his interesting talk he said:

"Can any of you boys tell me what space is?"

The bright faced young son of a country editor promptly raised his hand.

"Well, my lad," said the poet, "what do you think space is?"

"Twenty-five cents an agate line for display matter, sir," he piped out.—Saturday Evening Post.

Kipling's Elsie.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

It seems curious that, while practically all of the states and important cities in the country have taken measures to prevent the misuse of their seals, the great seal of the United States has been unprotected. When the measure now before the house to remedy this condition becomes a law any person who without lawful authority makes any impression of the great seal or uses such impression for the purpose of authenticating any document may be fined not more than $3,000 or imprisoned not more than five years. A penalty of $1,000 fine or imprisonment not exceeding ten years is provided for any person who without lawful authority counterfeits or has in his possession any likeness of the great seal. The bill passed the senate without any discussion and will undoubtedly go through the house as easily.

Presidential China.

The cabinets for the presidential china, which Mrs. Roosevelt has had placed in the east corridor of the White House, received an invaluable addition recently in eight pieces of the Washington and Madison ware. These pieces were loaned to the collection by Mrs. James Bradley of New York city. Mrs. Bradley is a prominent member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and has taken the greatest interest in the White House collection from a patriotic standpoint. The Washington china consists of an old rose English encaustic decanter, a glass preserve dish of the same make, an old Canton ware pickle dish of the willow pattern and a fish knife of Sheffield plate.

Sites For New Statues.

It has been decided that the Von Steuben statue, for which congress appropriated $50,000, shall be placed by Lafayette square. Two available corners now remain there. The German officer who fought with the American army will probably occupy one of these places, while on the other, facing Senator Depew's house, the statue of Pulaski, for which an appropriation of $50,000 was also made, will eventually stand.

President's War Bonnet.

President Roosevelt the other day received a genuine Sioux war bonnet and a Sioux buckskin coat. They were presented by John Flinn, superintendent of the Indian school at Chamberlain, S. D., in behalf of admirers of the president. A party of Black Hills cowboys is organizing to come to Washington from Deadwood, S. D., for the inauguration.

Colored Folks Alarmed.

The negroes of Washington are in a state of semitorment over the possibility of the re-establishment of the whipping post in the District of Columbia. They are holding mass meetings to protest against the “outrage” and are working themselves into a frenzy of fear and excitement.

Most of the Washington clergy, including Bishop Satterlee and Dr. Schick, the president's pastor, have come out in public utterances favoring the suggestion of President Roosevelt that corporal punishment be meted out to wife beaters.

Cost of Irrigation.

The census bureau has issued a report on the condition of irrigation in the United States in 1902, showing that 33,415 systems, with 59,311 miles of main canals and ditches, were irrigating 9,487,077 acres on 134,036 farms. The amount expended in constructing all these systems was $93,320,452. The average construction cost per acre in the arid region was $9.14.

Troops at the Inaugural.

General Chaffee, grand marshal of the inaugural parade, has announced that only about 3,000 regular troops will participate in the parade. This number will include one regiment of infantry, two battalions of coast artillery, one squadron of cavalry, two battalions of field artillery, the West Point cadets, the “middles” and the marine corps. General Chaffee said that he had merely indicated to General Wade the number of troops wanted and that that officer would select them. The grand marshal also stated that he had received a call from Colonel Turpin of the Thirtieth regiment of heavy artillery of New York, who announced that his regiment would come, and also a regiment of infantry, making in all about 1,500 men. A full brigade of Pennsylvania volunteers and Squadron A of cavalry will be here.

A Veteran Judge.

On the coming 22d of February Charles C. Nott will have served forty years on the court of claims, having been appointed one of its judges by Abraham Lincoln in 1865. He was made chief justice by President Cleveland in 1896. The appointees of Abraham Lincoln in public office are now becoming extremely rare, and in view of this and also the length of Judge Nott's service it is proposed to celebrate it in some way that will do him honor. He was born in New York in 1827, married a daughter of Mark Hopkins of Williams college, served with distinction in the civil war and has written extensively.

A Curious Fish.

Among the many curious fish in the exhibit at the National museum none attracts more attention than the arapaima. The arapaima is a native of British and French Guiana and is remarkable for being the largest of fresh water fishes, specimens weighing 400 and 500 pounds being by no means rare. Their scales and color are of such character as to resemble mosaic work. The head and mouth are bright yellowish green and yellow, shading by turns into grass green, emerald green, olive green, blue green, blue, blue gray, steel gray and silver gray on the tail, making a most gorgeous and peculiar looking fish. This specimen is a recent arrival at the museum.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY.

The Old Superstition About July 15 and the Weather.

The old superstition about St. Swithin's day and the rain has very generally died out. There are still, however, a good many who incline to the belief that such a notion must have had a basis of scientific fact or it could not have obtained as it has done for centuries. Some years ago the records of Greenwich observatory were examined for twenty years with a view to ascertaining whether as a matter of fact a rainy July 15 is usually followed by a rainy period approximating to forty days.

It was found that the years in which St. Swithin's day had given no rain were rather wetter during the following forty days than other years. It was concluded that the tradition had no meteorological facts whatever to support it. Everybody has heard the old story about the removal of St. Swithin's bones on July 15 and of the manner in which the saint resented it by deluging the district. It is a curious fact, but well authenticated, that the good man's bones were shifted from their original resting place in circumstances of considerable pomp and splendor and without a drop of rain falling. The origin of the superstition was probably a terrible flood which in 1313 devastated crops.

DEAN SWIFT.

He Never Flattered, and He Was Rude, Yet Fascinating.

Dean Swift never flatters. When told that the Duke of Buckingham desires his acquaintance he answers that the duke has not made sufficient advances to him yet. When asked to a dinner party by a secretary of state he insists upon drawing up a list of the company. Even ladies have to bow beneath the yoke. However beautiful, wealthy or high born, they must always appear as suppliants for Dr. Swift's acquaintance. Even then his rule is far from easy.

“Lady Burlington,” says he, “I hear you can sing. Sing me a song.” Her ladyship resents such an unceremonious address and refuses. “Why, madam,” says Swift, “I suppose you take me for one of your poor English hedge parsons. Sing when I bid you.” As Lord Burlington only laughs, the lady bursts into tears and leaves the room. This does not soften Swift. He meets her a few days after. “Pray, madam, are you so proud and ill natured now as when I last saw you?” is his greeting. The man's fascination is so strong that all yield to him.—Dean Swift and His Writings.

FIRE AND THE SKIN.

Why the Action of Heat Causes the Cuticle to Turn Red.

Blushing is the effect of the action of radiated heat on the nerves controlling the small blood vessels of the skin. These tiny vessels are normally in a state of moderate contraction; under exposure to heat they relax and become distended with blood.

In regard to exposure to direct heat, the reddening of the skin, together with the uncomfortably warm feeling accompanying it, may be looked upon as one of the useful little “danger signals” with which we are surrounded.

Persons who from any cause have lost their susceptibility, as is the case in some forms of paralysis, may expose a limb to heat until serious injury results.

The reason that the face chiefly flushes is that, in the ordinary position near a fire, it is most directly exposed to the rays of heat, while most of the body is shielded by clothing. Moreover, the nerves of the face are particularly sensitive in this respect, and the skin there is more abundantly furnished with blood vessels.

The Operatic “Star.”

It is the star system that kills or cripples the smaller undertakings that might lead to the establishment of permanent operas in every part of the country, the money that should be reserved for these smaller undertakings each year being eaten up by two or three stars. Every one suffers. Ninety-nine impresarios in a hundred go bankrupt; consequently they are growing more and more afraid of speculating in stars, and it may be hoped that some day the stars will no longer be able to do their starrings—at least not at another man's risk—and even the public that likes to hear stars will have no opportunity.—Saturday Review.

Gulf Weed.

In China and other parts of the east gulf weed is often pickled and used in salads. It is found floating in vast quantities in some parts of the Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans. Although a tropical plant, it is occasionally carried by winds and currents to the British coasts. The fronds are long, with distinct stalked leaves and air vessels which resemble berries. The presence of this weed on the Atlantic is regarded as a sure indication of the gulf stream, from which it takes its name.—Pearson's.

Met His Match.

“By the way,” said the lawyer, “your friend Mrs. Sharp was a witness in a case I had today. It was my painful duty to cross examine her.”

“I should think,” said his wife, “that she would undergo the ordeal as well as any one I know.”

“She did. Before she got through with me I had to ask the protection of the court.”—New York Press.

Innocence.

Mistress—If such a thing occurs again, Marie, I shall have to get another servant. Marie—I wish you would, madam. There's quite enough work for two of us.—Chicago News.

Pen Picture of Burrill.

In the life of John Burrill by W. Hale White the author of “Pilgrim's Progress” is described as follows: “He appeared in countenance to be a stern and tough temper, but in conversation mild and affable, not given to loquacity or much discourse in company unless some urgent occasion required it. He never boasted of himself or his parts. He sat forreled lying and swearing, being just in all that lay in his power to his word, not seeming to revenge injuries, loving to reconcile differences and make friendship with all. He had a sharp, quick eye, accompanied with an excellent discerning of persons, being of good judgment and quick wit. As for his person, he was tall of stature, strong boned, though not corpulent, somewhat of a ruddy face, with sparkling eyes, wearing his hair on his upper lip after the old British fashion, his hair reddish, but in his latter days time had sprinkled it with gray. His nose was well set, but not declining or bending, and his mouth moderately large, his forehead something high and his habit always plain and modest.”

The Art of Drawn Work.

Perfilado, or drawn needlework, occupies the same place in Mexico as lace does in Brussels. The city of Matamoros is the center of its production, and large quantities of this beautiful work are exported to the United States. Women and girls are employed in the manufacture, and some of it is very expensive, for a year may be required to make a single piece. The linen or silk is placed in a frame, the threads are drawn out one way, and with a needle and the finest spool thread the design is worked. Perfilado is taught in the public schools. Among the articles made are handkerchiefs, tablecloths, bedspreads and covers for chairs or lounges. The work is hard and difficult, and the earnings are on an average less than a shilling a day.

Onions as Weather Prophets.

One of the rites performed by the French peasants on New Year's eve is the forecasting of the weather for the coming year by means of onions.

When the bells ring for midnight mass they scoop out the middles of twelve onions, set them in a row on the kitchen table, fill them with salt and name them for the months of the year. Then when they return from mass they examine the condition of the salt. If it has melted in any of the “months,” those months will be rainy; if the salt remains dry, it indicates drought; if half melted, the first fortnight of the month will be wet.

The peasants have such implicit faith in this means of foretelling the weather that they plant their crops in accordance with the prophecy of the onions.

The Fifteenth Century Gambler.

In the time of King Henry IV. of England the “smart set” managed to play bridge or its equivalent without shocking the susceptibilities of those who think it wrong to play for money. The fifteenth century gambler, according to one historian, “played at cards for counters, nails and points in every house more for pastime than for gain.” “Everie scholar or petyte (little one) that plaies for money is to be expelled,” ordains a grammar school charter of the period. One of the duties of hospital sisters was “to make diligent search among the poore for cards or dice.”

Insulted His Legs.

Apropos of knee breeches a correspondent of the London Express quotes an anecdote from Captain Gronow's “Recollections” which puts the whole case in a nutshell. The baillie de ferrette was always dressed in knee breeches, with a cocked hat and a court sword, the slender proportions of which greatly resembled those of his legs. “Do tell me, my dear baillie,” said Montrond one day, “have you got three legs or three swords?” Soon after which, we should imagine, the baillie went home.

Damages Enough.

There had been a railway collision near a Scottish country town, and an astute local attorney had hurried to the scene of disaster. Noticing an old man with a badly damaged head lying on the ground, he approached him with notebook in hand. “How about damages, my man?” he began. The injured man waved him off with the remark: “Na, na; ye'll get nae damages fae me. It wasna me that hit yer bloomin' auld train.”

The Other Kind.

“Do you think there is anything remarkable in love at first sight?” asked a romantic youth.

“Not at all,” replied his cynical friend. “It's when people have been looking at each other for four or five years that it becomes remarkable.”

The Retort Amiable.

Mistress—I don't want you to have so much company. You have more callers in a day than I have in a week. Domestic—Well, mum, perhaps if you'd try to be a little more agreeable you'd have as many friends as I have.

Serious Mistake.

Dr. Cutts—I made an awful mistake when I diagnosed that man's case as appendicitis. Dr. Slash—What did the operation disclose? Dr. Cutts—That he didn't have a cent.—Cleveland Leader.

Cruel Fate's Favors.

The Poet—My mail contains nothing but rejected manuscripts! His Wife—And mine nothing but invitations to millinery openings!—Brooklyn Life.

On and Off.

Knobbs—They say poverty egged him on to the stage. Snobbs—Yes, and the gallery egged him off.—Princeton Tiger.

Trial by Jury.

Every town of considerable size has an expensive police department for the purpose of preserving order; also, to detect and bring to courts of justice violators of law and perpetrators of crime. Added expenses are incurred frequently in the shape of special rewards, and the scope of enquiry is broadened and cost increased by the calling in of State officers to assist in apprehending and bringing to trial parties under suspicion as guilty of specially heinous crimes.

Patient and careful investigations by intelligent officers sworn to a faithful and impartial discharge of duty results in securing evidence on which (after proper scrutiny by a tribunal in no sense dependent on popular will and therefore not to be swayed or influenced by popular prejudice or clamour) a District Court issues a warrant and an arrest is made. Before a tribunal of his peers, gathered from the several towns and cities of the county where the crime has been committed, the evidence implicating the accused person is presented and if these men deem probable cause for the arrest has been shown, the legal representative of the state or the county is ordered to draw a bill of indictment. Every step so far has been an expensive one, but the cost to the general public is still further increased if the accused is without means of securing legal talent to defend his interests,—for in such case the judge appoints some law firm to defend him, and of course the county pays the bill,—yes, even to the extent of paying cost of "expert" testimony.

And next comes the trial. A motion to "quash" the indictment is denied, a jury is impanelled, and the evidence against the accused is presented. All this procedure is too fresh in the minds of our readers to need more than this reference. Our purpose in writing this much has been to pave the way for the question, have not the people—all the people—in safeguarding the rights of prisoners, become the victims of legal technicalities which hinder the purposes for which laws are enacted and civil and criminal courts established?

Take the case just completed, which has cost the county between forty and fifty thousand dollars. The evidence to be presented by the defense had been so cleverly put before the public, prior to coming to trial, that the impression was general that a complete alibi would be shown on the witness stand and Tucker would go free, however incriminating other evidence might be of his guilt. So strong was this impression, that though evidence given by witnesses of great importance to the prisoner in the direct examination, diminished to the vanishing point under the analysis of the prosecuting officer, and his summing up of the testimony left no reasonable doubt that sympathy or other motives controlled in distorting the evidence given by these parties thus testifying, insulting words and acts greeted the verdict of the jury and for days now the reading public has been surfeited with equally inconsiderate words in the columns of our daily papers.

Civil liberty begins for the masses, with the acquired right of trial by one's peers, and on this broad foundation its equality implies our national fabric has been reared and the charter of our liberties rests; but we are quite certain if what was witnessed at the close of the Tucker trial is to be a common experience, the class of men whom we should all prefer to see drawn as jurors will more and more seek to evade such public service and the public be the sufferer in consequence.

Religious Education Association.

This important new organization meets in Boston for the first time February 12-16. There will be an opening session in the New Old South Church Sunday evening; a visit to Wellesley Monday, leaving Boston at 9:32; addresses, tour of buildings and luncheon; Harvard University Monday p. m.; Sanders Theatre 3 o'clock, address of welcome and illustrated address by Dr. Shaler; tour of college buildings; reception at Phillips Brooks house; Reception at Faneuil Hall, 8 p. m.; Ex-Secretary John D. Long presiding. There will be more than one hundred distinguished speakers at the sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Dr. A. E. Winship of the Journal of Education is chairman of the committee of arrangements; Rev. F. H. Means, Tremont Temple, secretary, and D. C. Heath, the publisher, is treasurer. For programs and tickets, address either Dr. Winship or Mr. Means.

To Fight the Pests.

The preliminary work of drafting a bill to meet the needs of the moth infested districts, seems to be well advanced, the committee of sixty having turned its results over to a committee of five, and they in turn over to a committee of three (Representative A. J. Wellington is a member) lawyers whose duty is now to see that the provisions of the bill (in the main in accord with wishes of local committees and the experience of experts) conform to constitutional limits and are not in conflict with other statutes. This is a tedious task, but good progress has been made and the prospect is a speedy consideration of the bill by the committee into whose hands it will be committed. The hearing held this week was mainly for the benefit of people in other sections of the state who are less familiar with details than we are, and had no real bearing on the measure under consideration by the sub-committee of which Mr. Wellington is a member.

The 11th Massachusetts Veteran Association will hold its 7th winter reunion and election of officers at Dwight Hall, 514 Tremont st., Boston, Feb. 22nd. Comrades are privileged to invite their wives or other friends to help round out the social success of the reunion.

The New York World recommends the establishment of Hospitals for drunkards where they may not be degraded by association with criminals. This will no doubt have an elevating effect on the criminals, but why not substitute the whipping post for the luxurious hospital?

An exhibition and private sale of oil paintings of Porto Rico, France, Italy, Holland and New England, by Walter L. Dean, are to be seen at the gallery of Doll & Richards, 2 Park street, Boston. The exhibition opened Friday, Jan. 27th, and continues through Wednesday, Feb. 8th.

The R. T. Booth Co., of Ithaca, N. Y., is the firm owning "Hyomel" and also "Mi-o-no" advertised by our druggists. We have had thirty years of experience with advertisers in this field and never dealt with more honorable people than the Ithaca firm named. Their guarantee may be implicitly accepted.

In the bill for appropriations for the District of Columbia, recommended to the House by the District committee, the item of public playgrounds was among the many other important omissions. All of the large cities are interested now in providing playgrounds for children and while the city of Washington is perhaps less in need of them now than other less sanitary and more crowded cities, it is in the interest of future economy to provide them as early as possible. Ground is being condemned and set aside for these purposes in London now at a cost of many millions, which if bought twenty or thirty years ago might have been procured for thousands.

The Masons as Hosts.

Thursday evening Royal Arch Chapter and Hiram Lodge held their annual ladies' night in the Unitarian church, Arlington. The program was somewhat of a departure, but was an interesting one in all respects. A splendid audience assembled at the church, the men in full dress and the ladies in handsome reception costumes, and all tended to make it a notable occasion. The church platform was adorned with palms and J. P. Weston, the organist of the church, had charge of an attractive program. There were organ selections, a cornet solo by George M. Weston and the Weston orchestra played during the reception at the church and in the vestry.

The arriving guests were received by the committee of arrangements in their capacity of ushers, High Priest Chas. F. Fultz being the chairman. His associates were Bros. Edw. A. Darling, Wm. F. Towne, Frederick W. Damon, Wm. M. Stewart, Andrew Bain, Edw. W. Goodwin, Chas. F. Collidge, Wendell P. Yerrinton, Chas. E. Cooke, Bert Houghton, Dr. R. D. Young. At the hour announced, Wor. Master H. H. Austin escorted the speaker of the evening, Rev. R. Perry Bush, pastor of the Church of Our Redeemer, Chelsea, to the pulpit platform, and prefixed his introduction with an address of welcome, saying that the object in inviting the guests present was two-fold—to give them a better knowledge of the purposes of the order and to get better acquainted with each other.

Mr. Bush's address was in brilliant periods, and effective and interesting in all respects. It was a resume of Free Masonry, adapted to such an assembly and occasion, tracing its beginning to almost pre-historic times and in so doing touching in a graphic way on the various cults, religions, and higher aspirations of the ancients that have set their stamp on history. He said Masonry had its inception and creation from the longing of the soul for an expression of a craving for something greater and nobler than itself and as a form of religious sentiment. The noble qualities of the order were dwelt on and the various expressions or phrases the order took in the marked periods of the world's history, the great men who have graced its ranks, the bulwark it has been to patriotism and its purpose ever to do good and represent the best in life.

At the completion of the address the company, to the music of the orchestra, left the church for the vestry below, where a delightful informal reception took place, where the members of the Chapter and Hiram Lodge devoted themselves to their guests and in every way tried to make the hour as enjoyable as possible. Caterer Hardy served the collation and this feature was handsomely arranged and the service gratifying in all respects, there being plenty of everything and ample service.

Behethoven Orchestra Club will give its next concert about the first of next month. Prior to this concert the remaining subscription tickets to the concluding series can be had for $2.00.

Sportsman's Show.

The second annual show of the Middlesex Sportsman's Ass'n closed on Monday of this week, with what is known as "Members' Night." This is the jolliest occasion on record and this last of a series of similar events which have been held for six or more years (before the formal organization was effected two years ago) was a record breaker and a red letter night. About half of the two hundred members, who are scattered all through this county, were present. The show and its closing events were held in the old building on Mass. avenue, Arlington, the upper part of which has two halls called Menotomy Hall and Veterans Hall. First on the program was the brewing of a venison stew in the latter hall, by the huntsmen of the forest, who were dressed in the hunting outfit. Past-Prest, N. J. Hardy was the chef and Prest. Abbott S. Mitchell was master of ceremonies. The stew and its accessories put all in good spirits and the good cheer that prevailed cemented the feeling of comradeship that obtains among the members. Informal exercises followed the supper, during which Mr. Hardy's services in behalf of the Ass'n were handsomely recognized by the presentation to him of an elegant gun case, Mr. E. S. Barker, of Winchester, making the presentation speech, which Mr. Hardy was able to reply to, although completely taken by surprise. Other informal remarks followed by Dr. Grozier, Dr. French, Dr. Shepard, but the high old time was in Menotomy Hall, where there were songs and a general good time, ending with a genuine war dance, organized by Artist West, who is well up in Indian lore and whose pictures of camp life are greatly admired.

The exhibit of live animals, and the stuffed and preserved trophies of the gun and rod, that was open to the public from Thursday, Jan. 26th, to Monday of this week, at six o'clock, was a great success and enjoyed by fully two thousand people who inspected the unusually large and splendid specimens arranged with so much taste and skill that they were given an enhanced attractiveness. In last week's paper was given a long account of the exhibits and other details, so it only now remains to speak of the closing days, Saturday forenoon the children of the public schools were the guests of the association, and 525 were present. Complimentary tickets were issued to the number of 750, and 650 paid admissions were present many times with members of their families. The success and advertisement which the show afforded had the effect of increasing the membership by seventy new applicants, which brings the full number to over two hundred, so that the third year starts in with a boom.

It is said that, judging from the progress that is being made at the rehearsals by the First Corps of Cadets for "Boodle & Co." its latest theatrical offering, it would not be surprising if this talented military organization made the hit of its career at the Tremont Theatre on Monday evening, March 13.

The bank men's comedy opera, "The Fili-buster" was ready for presentation and the first opportunity of the public to witness it came on Thursday afternoon, when the dress rehearsal was given before the friends of the dramatic company. From various sources comes the information that the movement of the people in Russia is a failure. Is the present not a little too early for a verdict? To be sure, this particular uprising has apparently been crushed out, but there is no sign that the spirit that provoked it has been in any measure quenched. The smoldering fire is there, and the final outbreak, although it may be preceded by many other ineffective ones, is certain to come.

The venerable ex-Gov. George S. Bontelle celebrated his 87th birthday on Saturday. He is quite well but is careful not to make extravagant demands on his strength. Senator, Congressman, Secretary of Treasury, etc., etc., during his active and busy life, the title of Governor, coming to him as a young man, is the one of all others which clings to him and he seems to rank it first. His "imperialistic" eccentricities are easily condoned when one recalls the high services rendered the country in his prime.

Charles J. Ross and Mabel Fenton, the original travesty players in vaudeville, will be headlines of the show at Keith's the week of Feb. 6, presenting "a respectful burlesque on Sardou's 'Cleopatra'." The surrounding list of entertainers is a notable one, including such clever people as Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, musical comedians; Foy and Clark, in their farcical sketch, "The Old Curiosity Shop"; Stuart Barnes, the Chesterfield of the varieties, one of the cleverest monologue comedians on the stage; Hal Merritt, in his monologue entertainment, "The Poster Girl," and Dixon and Holmes, vocal and character comedians. Watson's farmyard, which includes trick ponies, donkeys, dogs, geese, etc., will be a novelty for the juveniles, and there will be a complete change of motion pictures in the biograph.

EAST LEXINGTON LOCALS.

Mr. John V. Hayes has hired the house formerly occupied by Mr. Charles Spaulding.

There will be good music and refreshments at the Junior Alliance dance, Feb. 10th.

Miss Rita Lockwood was in town this week.

It has been fine sleighing, but few sleighing parties.

Miss Augusta Jackson visited schools one day last week.

Cary Branch Library has had some new books added recently.

Schools were closed for two days on account of the weather.

Mr. Peter Gillooly and Mr. Nelson Jenney were drawn as jurors, Saturday night.

Mr. C. H. Cook preached for the Baptist Sunday evening, from Isaiah 27: 4th and 5th verses.

Mrs. Blanchard, Miss Alice Blanchard and Mr. Fabius Blanchard have returned from California.

Miss Florence Kauffmann came home from Manchester, Friday night, and returned Sunday night.

The snow storm of last week seems to have gained considerable notoriety. Many places were greater sufferers than we were.

Captain Charles Hadley, in last week's paper, had all the glory of leading alone the grand march at the Firemen's ball. We wish the mistake corrected, for his wife performed her part well.

The town teams were busy in our village on Monday carting the snow away, which in some places was very high on Mass. avenue and if more had come on top of it would have been almost impassable.

The Junior Alliance will hold a dance in Village Hall, on Friday night of next week, Feb. 10th, in aid of Follen church. It is hoped all will attend, whether they go or not, for these young people are striving in many ways to lend a helping hand to keep the church alive and a power for good in our community.

Constable Foster always remembered E. L. reporter of MINUTE-MAN in the distribution of notices for town meeting, whereas our new constable left us out in the cold and we knew of no town meeting until we saw the notice in the MINUTE-MAN. A word to the wise constable will, we doubt not, be sufficient, as we often wish to refer to the warrants in our news.

The annual meeting of the E. L. Baptist church occurred on Monday night, in Follen Hall and was the best attended meeting they ever had. The following officers were elected: Clerk, Mrs. Gilbert P. Hadley; treasurer, Gilbert Hadley; standing committee, Misses Page, Hadley and Mrs. Wm. Sim; collector, Mrs. Page; supt. S. S. Mr. Streeter; asst. supt. S. S. Levi Cooke; secretary and treasurer S. S. Miss Florence Sim.

Rev. Charles L. Allen, of Waverly, preached at Follen church in exchange with Rev. L. D. Cochrane. His subject was, "Happiness;" text, "He that loveth his life for my sake shall find it." We should have high ideals; not spend our time with worldly things alone, for they will not give us lasting happiness. He spoke of Jesus' temptation, giving up popularity, etc., for higher things, and he quoted from Emerson, Goethe and others.

We are requested to state, which we do with pleasure, that many both here and at the centre are very glad that Mr. Frank D. Peirce has consented to have his name used as a candidate for Selectman. We think that every one should feel the necessity of having a Selectman in our village. For many years we were favored with the faithful services of Mr. Edwin S. Spaulding and he has been greatly missed here since his death. Mr. Peirce's friends give some strong reasons for his hearty support. He has no outside business to prevent him from attending to the many details which constantly come up. He is a good citizen and tax payer, clear headed and progressive, weighing subjects carefully before arriving at a decision and will be anxious to promote the best interests of the town.

Sunday afternoon Rev. L. D. Cochrane, Mr. Lucius A. Austin and Mr. Charles Spaulding attended the funeral of Mr. Noah Merrifield, who resided here several years. During his residence in our village his first wife died and he married his second wife, and the family had many friends here. Mr. Merrifield died on Thursday, Jan. 26th, at Stoneham, where he had a pleasant home. His funeral was at the Methodist church in that town, and his body was brought here for burial. He leaves a widow and two sons. He was an active business man until prostrated by sickness, (a tumor on the brain) which caused his death. He was a good man and citizen, a member of Bethel Lodge and was also much interested in the church; a kind husband and father, anxious that his children should be educated. The elder son is a medical student and the other in the High school. In the midst of a life of usefulness, with much to make life desirable, he is taken away; but God knoweth best.

Miss Pearl Wright, another of the young ladies who has just joined Follen Guild, conducted the meeting Sunday evening. Her paper was most excellent, reflecting much credit on her youthful efforts. To have a true friend one must love truth and right better than he loves that friend. To own a true friend we must love truth and right better than that friend, however dear. There must needs be undimmed sincerity and humility, even to confession, in every exalting love. In the last analysis, love is only a reflection of man's own worthiness from other men. Among all ennobling forces there is none other can be named as strong as an honest friendship. We can never know the value of a friend's blessing until he has died. We speak of a circle broken by death, but a circle is really incomplete until some of the friends sit out of sight. During the evening Mr. John Wright sang a solo; Mr. J. Wright and Miss Pearl Wright, a duet, "Whispering Hope;" Mr. William Sanderson and Mr. J. Wright, a tenor and bass duet. The meeting was well attended and enjoyed by all.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS LOCALS.

An interesting event in the Edward W. Byram household is the birth of a daughter, which occurred last week Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. W. Nicoll are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on Friday, Jan. 27.

Rev. Mr. Taylor spoke on "Sin and modern thought," on last Sunday. Next Sunday the topic will be, "The wages of sin as illustrated in literature." Friday evening the theme was the coming special meetings of Dr. Dawson.

Mr. H. H. Kendall and members of his family, Mr. Alexander Livingstone, wife, daughter, and Mrs. Chas. T. Geyer, of New York, also Mrs. Harry Alderman, were present at the recital at the Old Belfry Club, Lexington, that is reported elsewhere.

The home of Mrs. C. T. Parsons was the meeting place of the Sunshine Club on Wednesday afternoon. It being the first meeting in the month, the first of the afternoon was devoted to the transaction of business, followed by the usual game of cards.

The Duplicate Whist Club has had no meeting for some five weeks, owing to several interruptions, being principally sickness of its members. The members are anticipating meeting this Saturday evening with Mrs. Willard Cooke, of East Lexington.

The Sunday school class of Mrs. C. T. Parsons, made up of some eight young ladies, is preparing to hold a cake sale in the Park Avenue church, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 11th. The object is to raise money to send to a mission school located at Evans, Kentucky, in which the class is interested and which at Christmas time it remembered with substantial gifts.

The K. P. G. S. have been "the rounds" among its members and on Monday evening Miss Dorothy Parsons entertained for the second time this season. There were two substitutes required to make up the four tables of whist. The prizes, handkerchiefs and a book, were taken by Miss Alice White and Mr. Fred White. Mrs. Oscar Schmetzer will be the next hostess for the meeting on Feb. 13.

The Suffolk North Ass'n of which Rev. John G. Taylor, of the Heights, is the Scribe, held its January meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 31, with Rev. C. L. Noyes, of Somerville. The Rev. Milan C. Noyes, acted as moderator and interesting papers were presented by Rev. John A. Higgins on "The power on which the church must rely." Prof. Edw. C. Morse, "Conditions under which the Holy Spirit will work."

We are pained to learn of the critical illness of Mrs. Wm. A. MacLeod. The sympathy of the entire hill is manifested for her infant son and Mr. MacLeod, whose work on the Boston Journal has made for him a wide circle of friends and acquaintances who deplore the present condition of affairs. Mrs. MacLeod is a native of Lynn and a graduate of the Boston Conservatory, where she received a splendid musical education, but since coming to the Heights, two years ago, her delicate health has not permitted her entering into the social life of the hill or of giving of her talents for the enjoyment of the friends she has made here.

The papers have been full of the automobile events that have taken place at Ormound, Fla., and on Friday of last week announced the fact that Louis Ross had won the "Corinthian" trophy with his little steam car and had also won the Class A kilometer event by excellent judgment and admirable driving. He also took the one-mile Class 1, and came within an ace of capturing the Bowden trophy, and created a new world's record for steam cars in the kilometer distance. Mr. Ross is the husband of Mrs. Florence Keith Ross and both are well known here as having participated in many of the dancing parties. Mrs. Ross was also one of the matrons of honor at Mrs. George Hill's wedding.

We are informed that some thirty or more people connected with the Baptist church on Crescent Hill, have seceded. These persons assembled themselves together and then invited the present pastor, Rev. Mr. McCombe, to resign. This he declined to do, feeling that he was not justified in so doing, as it is claimed that the major half of the society desires him to retain his office and that these supporters are by far the largest contributors to the church expenses and work of the society. On Mr. McCombe's refusing to resign, these members withdrew from the church. Such dissensions and differences in a church are greatly to be deplored, especially in a small and struggling society, yet in most cases the blame rests jointly with both factions. We have always held the ground, however, that when a minister cannot hold his people together, it is wiser for him to resign, and so to remove, if possible, the cause of contention. Although we are willing to help and encourage all struggling societies that are organized to promote a higher religious and moral tone to the community, yet we think the multiplying of such organizations is often a hindrance rather than a help. Think for one moment what a help and inspiration it would be here at the Heights if all our church-going people could join in the support of one church, instead of struggling under the load of three. There was one church, years ago, and had all united in giving their support to this one, think what a brotherhood of spirit it would have caused.

and how much it might have accomplished for this community. We might have had a large, handsome edifice, a finely equipped musical department (choir, etc.), and been able to pay a salary to a minister that would make his efforts and his talents of note on all sides. Why is this not possible? We are afraid because of selfishness and the desire of individuals to have their own way and do things as they want to do them and not as the divine will would have them to do in the spirit of the golden rule of "loving one another."

Bowling Interests

The events of last week did little towards determining final results, as it was a "juggle all around" which left the leaders only four games better than the tail-enders of the Amateur League. A. B. C. team stood next to last in games won, but her average and pin total were both better than some of the leaders. All the Arlington men are in the high average list, ranging from 180 to 171. The standing is—

	Games		Pinfall

In the Boston Pin League the Arlington representatives held a good place at the close of last week's events. M. Gray has a record of 96, J. Gray 95, Dodge 95, Durgin 94, Wheeler 94, Brooks 94. The team standing is—

The Mystic Valley Candlepin League is now well underway, nine to twelve events having been completed by the competing teams and Lexington's Old Belfry has won 5 and lost 7. Tower with 92, Worthen 91, Redman 91, Nichols 88, represent the team in the high average list and altogether the showing is more than good. The official table is as follows:—

Lexington Old Belfry team had a hard time in its game Friday evening, Jan. 27th, at Woburn, when it played the Towandas in the Mystic Valley Boston Pin League. They lost all three games. E. B. Worthen got two nines and a hundred and was second best man. Brown of the Towandas being first with his 296. The scores were as follows:

The Young Men's League were defeated again at Crescent Hall, by the Melrose Y. M. C. A., last Monday evening. Melrose played a perfect passing game, their two forwards and centre doing all the scoring. For the home team McPartland and Pearson played a very clever game. The summary:

The Melrose Y. M. C. A. 2nd team defeated the Y. M. L. 2nd, last Monday night, in a fast and interesting game. Both teams did some very clever passing. The score was 28 to 18.

Next Monday night, Feb. 6, the Young Men's League first team play the Malden Y. M. C. A. Indians and the second team will meet the Boylston Club.

Last Saturday evening, Jan. 28, Lake-side's 2d team, played the S. and A. C. team at Jamaica Plain and were defeated in a score of 60 to 6.

"What was the sermon about today, Mary?" inquired a mistress of her domestic.

"Please, m'm," said Mary, twisting the corner of her apron, "I've forgotten the text, but it was about young men."

"Oh, really?" said the lady. "And what else was it about?"

"Please, m'm, it was about young women too."

"But can you tell me anything Mr. B. said?"

"I couldn't repeat it exactly, m'm, for it was a mixed up kind of sermon, but it was very interesting," added the maiden.

For a winter climate Canon City, Colo., has a reputation second to no locality in the United States. During the winter of 1903-04 hundreds of robins, blue birds and turtles doves made their homes in that vicinity, and there was no weather during the whole season so severe as to harm the feathered creatures.

The Belgian and German markets do not furnish France half as much as do its own colonies.

At a recent medical exhibition in London a new anesthetic, called somnoform, was shown. It is a liquid whose "boiling point" is 23 degrees below zero. The moment it comes in contact with the air it becomes gas. Its great virtue, from a medical point of view, is that breathing stops before the heart when it is administered.

Housewives in Florida scrub their floors with oranges. In almost any town in the orange growing districts women may be seen using the fruit as soap. They cut the oranges in halves and rub the flat, exposed pulp on the floor. The acid in the oranges does the cleansing and does it well, for the boards are as white as snow after the application.

WOMAN AND FASHION

Negligee For Girl.

No negligee yet devised provides greater satisfaction and comfort than the kimono. This one is simple and graceful and includes an inverted plait at the back, which means graceful and becoming fullness. As illustrated the material is white Japanese crape with bands of pink wash silk, but all these in vogue for garments of the sort are appropriate.

To make the kimono for a girl of fourteen years of age will be required five and three-eighths yards of material twenty-seven or three and a half yards forty-four or fifty-two inches wide, with one and five-eighths yards of silk for bands.

Looking Ahead.

The full skirts which have prevailed during the fall and winter will undoubtedly be good during the coming spring. Of course the fullness will be confined in plaits, flaring gracefully at the knees. Walking skirts will be shorter. The correct length is three or four inches off the ground. By a trick of fashion carriage and reception skirts are to be worn three or four inches on the ground all the way around. They must be as long in front as in the back.

There is a promise that the coats for spring will be short. Jackets and perhaps Etons will take the place of the three-quarter coats and those even longer which have been worn during the winter.

The Latest Stocks.

Some of the new stocks are almost barbaric in their color schemes, a dozen colors being piled on a background of leather or the green suede that is so good this year. But the prettiest stocks are made with little frills that spread out at the base of the collar like a tiny yoke. Most of the frills are of plaits, with an occasional one that is flared out by curiously shaped bits of some sheer material.

A Velvet Novelty.

A novelty among the many new silk velvets which have appeared on the market is that adorned with an embossed satin spot about the size of a pea, which is of a somewhat darker shade than the groundwork. In some cases it is of quite a different color from the velvet and is outlined with a narrow rim of white, which gives it a rather curious effect.

The New Vails.

Lace veils, especially the real for spring wear, will have large designs. Bordered veils of all sorts are distinctly smart in Paris, although here they are less worn. Abroad the idea is to have the hat matched by its veil, and many of the new hats shown here have veils that came from Paris with them, each hat having its own particular veil.

A Novel Design.

Blouse waists made with deep cuffs in gauntlet style and so designed as to suggest a vest effect are among the novelties of the later season. This one is made of fancy silk, with collar and cuffs of lace, but all waisting materials are appropriate, and the design suits the entire gown as well as the separate blouse. The back is laid in box plaits for its entire length, while the fronts are tucked at the shoulders and include an applied box plait at the center, which can be slashed, as illustrated, or left plain, as preferred.

The quantity of material required for a woman of medium size is four and three-quarters yards twenty-seven, four and a quarter yards twenty-seven or two and three-quarters yards forty-four inches wide.

Consolation

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by K. M. Whitehead

Through the stained glass above the palms and roses the midday sun streamed in, flecking the scene with gorgeous reds, blues and greens. It shed a golden glory upon the tall, slender, graceful bride, and at the sight the best man shut his jaw a bit more determinedly. She was looking more than ever like an angel, and in five minutes she would be the wife of his best friend. That was the monotonous sentence which kept repeating itself in his mind. As if he were likely to forget!

Opposite him and just behind the bride the maid of honor stood. For the moment she, too, had forgotten the guests, forgotten everything save the fact that the one man in the world whom she might have loved—for she always phrased it thus carefully to herself—was at that moment vowing to love and cherish her closest friend. She had a curious feeling that when she was an old, old woman, when a yellow, withered face and dim, sad eyes looked back at her from her mirror, she should still be able to live over again the despair of this moment, when the white robed clergyman was taking him from her life, a thousand times more irrevocably than death could have done.

There was a stir about her like the rush of the wind. For a second she was too lost in thought to understand; then, as she dropped upon her knees somewhat hurriedly, her bewildered eyes caught those of the best man, casually at first and then with a quick, startled recognition of something she saw there. He, too, had the air of a person suddenly awakened from a nightmare, momentarily uncertain of the surroundings in which he found himself.

A moment later she had forgotten his

HALLER WAS POLITE.

A Story of the Famous Swiss Scientist and His Election.

Haller, a famous Swiss scientist of the eighteenth century, was once well rewarded for his politeness to a fellow traveler. Some scientists find it hard to take an interest in anything except their own specialties. It was not so with Haller. His fellow traveler was a good woman from Berne. The conversation fell naturally upon the commodities for which Berne is noted—cakes.

The Berne dame said with pride that she could make fourteen kinds of cakes.

What was her surprise and delight when Haller asked her how she made them! She eagerly began a recital, with copious explanations, of those fourteen recipes, and she had a good listener.

Perhaps Haller regretted his rash question, but he did not show it. He listened patiently and smilingly to the end, and he and the Berne woman parted very good friends, though he had hardly spoken a word. It is safe to say that in all his scientific researches he had not learned so much about the combination of butter and sugar and eggs.

Some time afterward he was elected to an important political office. From some quarters he received an unexpected number of votes. Then he found out that his Berne cakenaking friend had been so impressed with the intelligence and ability of her fellow traveler that when she heard he was running for office she gave her relatives, friends and acquaintances no peace of mind until she had secured their promise to vote for him.

CABS IN RUSSIA.

Fares Are Low If You Are Up to the Tricks of the Drivers.

In no European country are cab fares so cheap as in Russia, for there is no tariff at all. On the rank are half a dozen drivers on the boxes of their droskies—tiny victorias, hung low and with just room for two if the two clasp waists after the Russian mode.

If you know just about how far you want to drive you take the first driver and tell him where you want to go and what is the price offered. The etiquette is followed invariably. The driver throws up his eyes in horror. He calls upon the saints to witness that so ridiculous a price must be doubled before he could look at it.

You are not deceived. You walk on. And before you have gone ten paces the cabman is after you, pointing politely to the seat in the drosky and, with a grin, repeating frequently the Russian equivalent for "please."

But if you are driving to a destination at an unknown distance it is necessary to ask the opinion of the first belted, belted, bearded brigand on the box of a drosky. "Then it is your turn to throw your eyes to heaven and call on the saints. A quick problem in division works itself out in your head. Threes into a ruble? And you put yourself up to a Dutch auction along the rank. "Hotel So-and-so, sorok kopeck!" you cry, with a leaning toward generosity. There is a race for you. You drive a long way in Moscow for a dime.

When Vigo Was Famous.

Vigo, the Spanish seaport, is an old time scene of war. It was to Vigo that Drake and Norris sailed in 1588 to place Don Antonio on the throne of Portugal. They burned Vigo, but failed to capture Lisbon and went away cursing each other. So little plunder was there that the common sailors received but 5 shillings a man in wages and took to robbery, for which many of them were hanged in and near London. When the English under Rooke put into Vigo harbor again there was treasure in sight. A fleet of Spanish galleons, of which Benbow had been in pursuit, was in the bay, protected by a French fleet. Several galleons were captured by the English, but more went to the bottom and there remain to this day. Nowadays Vigo is a commonplace little town.

Great Men.

It is a matter of common observation that at the passing of the great men of each generation there is a pessimistic feeling prevalent that "there were giants in those days." But the feeling has never had any warrant in the actual deficiencies of the oncoming generations. Orators have come and gone, and statesmen have come and gone, and sometimes their immediate successors have not been discernible. But in time the men have emerged who have taken their places and who have improved upon the patterns they left. —Des Moines Register.

Never Touched Him.

The old man paused at the parlor door on his way upstairs. "Don't forget, young man," he said, "that the lights in this house are all out at 10 o'clock."

"Thanks," rejoined the young man, who was helping the fair maid to hold the sofa down, "but—er—couldn't you make an exception tonight and put 'em out an hour earlier?" —Chicago News.

Lucky Stars.
"I've had a very successful season," said the prosperous looking theatrical manager.
"Well, you can thank your stars for that," replied the seedy looking madman. —Yonkers Statesman.

Inciting to Perjury.

Lawyer—Did the defendant to your knowledge ever incite another to perjury? Witness—Yes. Once I heard him ask a woman her age.

A love of justice is simply in a majority of men the fear of suffering injustice. —La Rochefoucauld.

Conditions That Must Be Satisfied.

The low paid employee today can succeed as well alone as with a wife, which his ancestors could not do. At the same time his selfish enjoyments are greater without her, for he may live irresponsibly, without a motive to save and with all his surplus available for wayside pleasures of an antisocial sort. The disintegrating forces of a great city upon homeless youth are too obvious to need emphasis. The wage earning girl, on her part, is likely to acquire the taste of fragmentary, pointless and unproductive spending. Both form habits harmful to the altruistic motives of group living—of the home idea. A man who goes from the saloon, street corner or cheap pleasure club, a girl who leaves the dance hall and pavement glitter to make a home for him, the bare necessities of which are hardly met by his wages, are not qualified by their experiences to bring to a successful issue the supreme test of character that makes stable a high standard.—Professor Simon N. Patten in Independent.

A Soft Answer.

It was in 1872 that George Chesmore Bromley, author of "Long Ago and Later On," became a member of the Bohemia club of San Francisco and soon found himself "Sire of the Low Jinks," which occasion he vividly recalls, and especially his arrival at home afterward. He writes: "My dear little wife awoke at my entrance and inquired the time. I looked at my watch and replied, 'Ten minutes past 10,' and then laid the watch on the mantelpiece. Having some doubts as to the correctness of my reply, the little woman arose and looked for herself. 'What time did you say it was?' she asked again. 'Ten minutes past 10,' said I. 'Ten minutes past 10! Why, it only lacks ten minutes of 2,' said she. 'Is that so?' said I. 'Why, bless my soul, how time flies! I had no idea that I had been home so long.' This was another occasion when I realized that a soft answer turneth away wrath."

Wrestling With the Spaniard.

When Walter Williams, from Columbus, Miss., was in Spain in the summer of 1903 he called upon a provincial editor in the interest of the St. Louis exposition. The next day the paper had the following: "Walter Williams of the United States purchased the state of Louisiana and next year will give a celebration, to which he invites his fellow journalists of Europe." Mr. Williams again called upon the editor and thoroughly explained matters. The editor apologized and printed this correction: "Governor Francis of Missouri has purchased a large tract of land in the Great American desert, and Walter Williams is here to invite the journalists of Spain to a show which the governor will give next year." Mr. Williams fled the place, fearful the editor might explain some more.

Rossetti's Awful Breakfast.

It was at one time arranged that Dante Gabriel Rossetti, his brother William and Swinburne and George Meredith should live together in a certain house. Meredith happened to see Dante Gabriel Rossetti at breakfast and changed his plans. Meredith himself tells the story. "It was past noon," says he. "Rossetti had not yet risen, though it was an exquisite day. On the breakfast table on a huge dish rested five thick slabs of bacon, upon which five rigid eggs had slowly bled to death. Presently Rossetti appeared in his dressing gown, with slippers down at heel, and devoured the dainty repast like an ogre." That meal was too much for Meredith, and he sacrificed three months' rent rather than see it repeated.

The Sphinx's Riddle.

The riddle which the sphinx propounded to the Thebans and the solution of which she made a condition of her withdrawal from the state was as follows: "What animal has one voice, at first four, then two and at last three feet?" Oedipus discovered the answer to be "man," who in infancy, from using his hands as well as his feet in walking, may be said to have four feet (all fours), in after life employs but two, and in old age to these he adds a staff, which may be reckoned a third. Upon this solution being given the sphinx is said to have thrown herself headlong from the citadel.

The Simple Life.

In my wanderings on foot when I walk through the provinces of Europe and talk to the people and fish and learn I find that what people lack most in life is simplicity, the poor man as well as the rich. It consists not in plain dress, but in plain living, in simplicity of heart, of personal beliefs and respect for the beliefs of others.—Rev. Charles Wagner.

Preparedness.

Begin the morning by saying to thyself, I shall meet the busybody, the ungrateful, arrogant, deceitful, envious and unsocial, but I, who have seen the nature of the good, that it is beautiful, and that of the bad, that it is ugly, can be injured by none of them.—Marcus Aurelius.

Cause For Sorrow.

Brown—Smith is down with brain fever. Green—You don't say so! Brown—Yes. The doctor says if he recovers his mind will be a blank. Green—Well, I'm sorry to hear that. He owes me $10.

Spiteful.

Kate—Do you think it's true that people catch anything through kissing? Madge—Oh, I don't think so. See how often you've been kissed and you've never caught anybody yet.

He who brings ridicule to bear against truth finds in his hand a blade without a hilt.—Lander.

man's Club. It will be one well worthy the patronage of everybody, as Prof. de Sumichrast is a delightful speaker and is fully conversant with the subject in which his sympathies are naturally engaged, owing to his nationality. The great palace at Versailles, France, is his subject. The first lecture occurs in Town Hall, Arlington, Friday evening, Feb. 10, when the subject is, "The Palace of the Great King." All four are illustrated by the stereopticon. The list of the lectures, etc., will be found in the advertisement.

The largest sociable of the season was held in the vestries of Pleasant St. Cong. church on Wednesday. The main vestry was handsomely decorated with streamers of red crepe paper and large Japanese lanterns. The supper tables were also adorned with candelabras and other decorations, while on the table of the special guests, the Glee Club of Arlington Boat Club, there was a bouquet of flowers and other special touches. The supper was all that could be desired. The committee in charge was chairmaned by Mrs. S. M. Bartlett, assisted in practical details by Mrs. S. C. Bushnell. It was made up largely by young ladies who "did themselves proud." The "Glee" furnished the evening's program and it proved a delight to everybody. Mr. Franklin Russell, the director, apologized for the depleted numbers of the chorus, but he need not, for those present fully made up for the absentees and the whole effect was harmonious and rendered with taste and more than usual effectiveness. A variety of selections differing in their character, but all thoroughly enjoyed. Rev. Mr. Bushnell suitably voiced the appreciation of those present for the courtesy so generously offered by the Glee Club and which made it an evening long to be remembered. Solos by Mr. Peter Robertson, who has a deep, rich bass voice, and by Mr. Thomas Holmes, who sang most artistically, added a distinctive feature to the program.

The death of Mr. James E. Duffy was almost like a thunder clap out of a clear sky and not only was a terrible blow to his family, but a shock to his friends, as he was widely known here in Arlington. He was seized with a paralytic shock while at his barber room, 457 Mass. avenue, about nine o'clock Friday evening, Jan. 27th, and passed away at his home at 5 Lewis avenue early Sunday morning, without gaining consciousness from the time he was stricken down. Mr. Duffy was one of the best-known and highly respected business men of the town, having been identified in business here for over 30 years. He was born in Brookline, July 18, 1853, and came to Arlington when about 20. For several years he was foreman at the Fowle mills, and then severed his connection with this concern and went into business for himself as a barber and remained in that business to the time of his death. During his residence here he has won a host of friends and the respect of all. Mr. Duffy was a member of the Democratic town committee, the Firemen's Relief Association and a charter member of Council Knights of Columbus. He is survived by a wife and three children and his brother, officer John R. Duffy, is a member of the Arlington police force. The funeral took place from the home of the deceased on Tuesday morning and with impressive services at St. Agnes church at nine o'clock. The burial was in St. Paul's cemetery. A large mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John M. Mulcahy, Arlington council, K. of C., attended the funeral and escorted the body from the home to the church and the cemetery. The music was by the members of the regular choir, and at the close of the services Mrs. Amanda Beauchemin sang "Only Waiting" and James P. Donnelly "Nearer, My God to Thee." The bearers were Thomas J. Robinson, James J. Mahoney, Thomas J. Green, Garret Barry, George White and Peter E. O'Neill.

Arlington a Winner.

The excellent reputation of Arlington High School's hockey teams in past years was upheld, Monday afternoon, when its "seven" defeated the Roxbury High aggregation in the deciding match of the Interpreparatory League at Franklin Field by the score of 2 to 0. The victors played a fast game, and despite the fact that its forwards were out-weighted, their passing and shooting was much better than Roxbury. The Highland School offered a stubborn resistance and had it not been for the work of Marston at cover point, Daly at point and Allan in goal, the victors would have been successful in running up a larger score. Ever since the organization of the Interpreparatory Ice Hockey League the Arlington High team has won. This year the team was slightly handicapped, losing its captain in the early games, but under guidance of Viets, who was elected to fill the vacancy, the Arlington boys played a remarkably fast game. Clifford scored the two goals made by Arlington, while Viets and M. Taylor also played well. Capt. Stucklen, Faunce and Norton were conspicuous for Roxbury. The line-up:-

A Presentation.

Jan. 27th was Mr. Wm. E. Wood's birthday, a fact which must have been pretty thoroughly canvassed among his numerous friends in the Baptist church, Arlington, if what occurred on the anniversary is any indication. For more than thirty years he has been organist and choir director at the First Baptist church, Arlington, and given his talents and services free, in what has been a pleasant and loving service for him, and one freely rendered, yet so unusual that his friends and associates in the church work have desired for a year or more to give him some tangible expression of their appreciation and regard. This took form on Friday of last week when, in Mr. Wood's absence, Mr. Hudson, N. Y., attending to the affairs of the Gifford-Wood Co., of which he is president, a superb cathedral clock was set up at his handsome home at 27 Jason street, by experienced men in the employ of Shreve, Crump & Low, of Boston, which firm furnished the clock. Rev. C. H. Watson, D. D., pastor of the church, has for some weeks, in behalf of the friends who have contributed so generously to the gift, been making a study of "Grandfathers' Clocks," and as the result, a superior article has been secured. Its case, of chastely carved and designed mahogany, stands too high for any ordinary room, but just fits in the niche in the hall for which it was designed, is in keeping with the finish of the hall, in the colonial style, and is the crowning ornament to the beautiful interior. The clock has the famous Eliot works, of London manufacture, and the Durfee chimes. The chimes are in two sets, and are tuned to reproduce the chimes on the old Whittington Cathedral and those of Westminster Abbey. The face of the clock is of chiselled brass and wrought steel in elegant design, and not only tells the time of day, but also the day of the month and the various aspects of the moon. The gift was a complete surprise to Mr. Wood and his delight in it and high appreciation of the spirit that animated its proposal, as well as the intrinsic value of the present (the price of the clock was four hundred and fifty dollars) may better be imagined than described.

A Munificent Gift.

A special town meeting convened in Town Hall, Lexington, Tuesday evening, called to take action on the offer of a gift of a memorial library to the town made by Miss Alice B. Cary. The meeting was a good sized one and a spirit of deep gratitude toward the donor of the gift, was observed in each detail of the debate and the general tone of the assembly. The meeting organized at 7.30 with the choice of Edward P. Nichols as moderator, then the matter of the acceptance of the gift, as set forth in Article 2 of the warrant, was voiced in the following vote, presented by James P. Munroe:-

VOTED: That the town of Lexington, mindful of the invaluable service rendered by the late Maria Hastings Cary in generously establishing a public library for the inhabitants, and deeming the proposed gift of a house for that library an important means of education and a fitting ornament to the town, as well as a proper memorial to the family, the members of which have always set a high example of devoted citizenship, accept most gratefully the gift tendered by the Cary heirs, of a library property on the corner of Mass. avenue and Clark street, the building of said property to house the present Cary Library now in the Town Hall to be known as "The Cary Memorial Library."

Mr. Munroe spoke for some few moments on the practical and helpful interest shown of the Cary name have always shown toward the town they have been identified with for many years and what a debt of gratitude the town owes Mrs. Cary for instituting such a helpful educational department in our town, and now to Miss Cary, who offers to build for us a beautiful home for her mother's gift, which shall be a lasting memorial to the name of Cary and a joy and acquisition to the town for many years to come. Mr. Munroe then described the proposed structure at some length, the architect's plans and a perspective picture of the library, framed and standing on easels on the platform assisting him in pointing out details and the many advantageous points of construction.

As everybody in Lexington knows, the building will occupy a site on the corner of Clark street and Mass. avenue, now occupied by two old tenement houses and the G. W. Spaulding grocery. The entrance will face directly the Hayes memorial fountain and statue of Capt. Parkman on Lexington Battle Green. The location is right in the center of the town and yet in a beautiful section which the library will still further adorn and may induce other structures of a better class than we are blessed with just now. It will sit in forty feet from the street. The reading room, 37x194 feet, will be on the line of Clark street and somewhat oval in shape. The stack room, with its generous proportions of 40 and one-half feet by 27, is in that portion of the building extending along the line of Mass. avenue, where the noise is not likely to disturb the books.

The delivery room will be in the form of a rotunda reaching the ceiling and roofed by glass, its proportions 28x23 feet. The children's room is directly out of the receiving room and is 20x14 and has an open fire place. In the rear of the reading room is a long, narrow room suitable for art exhibits, while the trustee's room measures 14x17. There are toilette rooms, librarian's room, and every possible convenience to add comfort, luxury and expand the usefulness of the building. The outside dimensions of the library are 98 feet by 77 feet, and its booking capacity 55,000 volumes, with a present arrangement in the stack room for 22,340 volumes that can be doubled at any time. Books not in general circulation are to be stored in the basement fitted up for that purpose. Willard D. Brown, of Lexington, is the architect directly interested and the estimated cost of the structure is from twenty-five to thirty thousand dollars. It is to be built of field stone from Cary farm for the lower story, the upper section to be in the plastered timber effect, somewhat after the Elizabethan period of architecture.

After Mr. Munroe had finished his outline of the library, Geo. O. Whiting seconded the motion on the vote presented with words expressing appreciation of Miss Cary's kindness. R. P. Clapp said the gift expressed loyalty and love, qualities that are enduring and that it showed a feeling of abiding faith in the town of Lexington. E. A. Bayley said the distinctive beauty of the gift was its bestowal during the lifetime of the donor, who did not wait to get through with her wealth before trying to help and bless others with it. The gift was accepted with a unanimous vote—all rising who had the power to vote, and the gentlemen speaking were warmly applauded when reference was made to the name of Cary. On motion of Rev. C. F. Carter, Messrs. Whiting, Nichols and Munroe were appointed a committee to wait on Miss Cary and express to her, in suitable terms, the measure of the town's gratefulness to her. Mr. Bayley also presented a motion, meeting with the approval of the meeting, that it was the sense of those present that a small strip of land on the avenue between the proposed building and the structure just beyond it, be purchased as a protective measure. Geo. O. Whiting, G. W. Taylor, A. E. Locke, were named as the committee to negotiate for this land. The meeting had completed the business for which it was called with perfect unanimity by half-past eight, when many remained to admire the plans and inspect the drawing.

Recital at the O. B. C.

Monday evening the club calendar entertainments were continued, and to many present the evening proved an unexpected delight and nothing more deserving of praise has taken place at the Old Belfry Club this season. It was an unexpected pleasure, for hardly any one in the audience had heard or knew anything of the talents of Miss Katherine Jewell Everts, the reader, aside from the general announcement that she was the best pupil of Mr. Leland T. Powers, which might mean much or little. After hearing Miss Everts, we knew that it meant much, for she sustained the assumption of being a reader of rare merit, of charming personality, with no little dramatic talent and grace of manner and expression. The audience was about half the size of the club membership, but it was a select company of those who enjoy the higher class of entertainments given here.

Miss Everts read "My Lady's Ring," by Alice Brown, which appeared a short time ago in one of the well known monthly magazines as an illustrated "feature" article. It is an unusually well written comedy, with an effective climax at the close of each of the four scenes, and has a keenly sustained interest, although the episode is a simple one and has no great merit as to originality. Miss Everts failed in not a single instance to make the seven characters she portrayed real, distinctive and full of personality. The first scene between Prince Romanoff and his wife Princess Helene, that of a jealous, infatuated husband and a charming and versatile woman of the world, loving and heart whole, was exquisitely done and showed the rare intelligence of the character study. The scene between the peasant lovers was full of sentiment and ardor, while the quaint humor and pathos of the parents of the girl made a brilliant contrast between personages of high and low degree and showed Miss Everts' varied talents in impersonation. The old mother's common sense view of things, tempered by religious superstitions, gave a bright touch to the tragic elements of the comedy and was full of human nature. The piece closes with explanations and reconciliation between the estranged couples, with the recovery of the turquoise ring which has proved the marriage. In the final grouping of the characters, Miss Everts' mobile and expressive face painted each character true to nature, and made the ensemble most gratifying and entertaining in all respects. She was recalled several times and responded with one of Robert Browning's earlier poems.

Lexington Outlook Club.

Miss Maud Summers, of the Arts and Crafts Society, addressed the Outlook Club, in Old Belfry Hall, Tuesday afternoon, before a good attendance. It proved in all directions one of the most satisfactory meetings of the season in giving unalloyed pleasure to all present. The afternoon opened and closed with groups of songs by Miss E. Pauline Syer, who has a fine contralto voice. Her most pleasing selections were "Absence" by Metcalf and "The song my mother taught me," by Dvorak, her rich vibrant notes being especially adapted to these numbers. She was skillfully accompanied by Mrs. Edith Noyes Porter.

Miss Summers was introduced by the president, Mrs. Prince, and spoke for an hour on "Handicraft and Life." She had a pleasant manner, was evidently inspired by her subject and had an easy and fluent flow of language and apt illustrations, which made her address convincing, enlightening and entertaining. She illustrated how the work of the heart and hand should be the expression of the spirit taking outward form: the spirit, or inspiration, always to be the controlling element in our life work. She showed how the spirit expressed itself in elementary life among savage and undeveloped peoples and why so much that they produce with their hands is artistic. It is the natural expression of their lives and aspirations, no matter how limited, but therefore true art or artisanship.

What interested us the most in the talk were her remarks on our present educational methods. She said the schools and colleges are fifty years behind the progress made in other directions. We agree with her. Children are being trained and educated out of their sphere of usefulness and the dignity of labor and pleasure of handicraft work is being belittled and sacrificed for empty forms and vain heads and lives. Each child should be taught to express itself and its individual talents.

When mother and children are competent to do the work of the home, in as far as they are adapted to it, many vexed problems will have been solved. She said the 20th century must be one of education of internal expression in outward forms of handicraft, and that the academic course is a past science and an outgrown form for which the present finds little use. That which does not prepare us to live useful, active lives, after the promptings of our talents and capacities, and to understand national and household economies, woefully fails in its intents and purposes. When dignity is accorded to every branch of life, industrial as well as intellectual, for we only arrive at the latter perfection by expressing in the highest perfection our nature and the work we were born to do, then the prophesy of Revelations will have been fulfilled, "A New Heaven and a New Earth." We have only been able to note in the briefest possible way, in our own words, Miss Summers' thought, teeming with many and diverse suggestions. She displayed home-made industries of various kinds and was gracious and interesting in her explanations of their manufacture by deft fingers. She made fingers assume the dignity of the implements of the soul.

After enjoying Miss Syer's songs, there was a social half-hour, during which refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee, consisting of Mrs. Edwin Read, Mrs. H. M. Saben, Misses Alice Munroe, Elsie Tyler, Emily Briggs. A group of young girls acted as "servers."

U. S. V. Life Saving Corps.

To our view no Arlington organization appealing in recent years to the general public for assistance in carrying on benevolent work, is or has been more worthy to receive it than the young men who gave a concert and dance in Town Hall, on the evening of Jan. 31,—the Arlington branch of the U. S. V. Life Saving Corps,—and we are gratified at their success.

The object of the party was to secure funds to aid in providing better and more adequate quarters for the crew on the margin of Spy pond, their special field of usefulness. The present station is fully equipped with staunch boats, each member is an expert swimmer, each has been thoroughly drilled in the duties of his station, and the store room is supplied with medicine chest, blankets, arm and finger splints, life preservers and metallic life buoys capable of holding up four men,—but the crew desires more and better rooms for the social features of the corps, and are worthy to be encouraged in procuring the same. This last summer's record is one of which the crew may well be proud.

The officers of the crew are Charles E. LeBuff, captain; Herbert C. LeBuff, 1st lieutenant; M. H. Oliver, 2d lieutenant; Albert F. Duffy, 3d lieutenant; crew, Emil Hackel, Frank A. O'Brien, Edw. C. Macdonald, Roger D. Allison, Harold G. Hayes, Robert Robbins, Robert McDavitt, Henry D. Kidder, Henry Kaulbeck. Arthur R. Hutton is secretary and treasurer. These gentlemen managed the affair of Tuesday evening and are deserving of congratulations.

The opening feature was a concert by the Boston & Maine Y. M. C. A. Band, whose concerts at the pond were so thoroughly enjoyed last season, assisted by solo talent,—Mr. Barcelo, Master Daniel McGrath, Miss Florence Spaulding, and Halliday and Riley, the colored specialists. The band selections were pleasing compositions and were well rendered, and the whole made a most enjoyable concert program. Miss Spaulding sang "Spring Song" by Henschel and her voice has acquired considerable compass and volume since we heard her last. She was given an encore and a great bunch of flowers and sang in response a charming ballad that took with the audience immensely. She was accompanied by Miss Swadkins. The song and clog dance by Halliday and Riley was the hit of the evening. They are to be reckoned among the best of their kind. Master McGrath had a voice of unusual power and was quite a remarkable singer.

The affair concluded with a dancing party that proved congenial and well balanced. Capt. LeBuff was floor director, Secretary Hutton was his assistant, and the crew named above officiated as marshals under their efficient leadership. The program of the concert and order of dances (it was printed at this office) appeared in pamphlet form 12 pages with cover,—interspersed with advertisements of local houses and city firms, making a handsome souvenir as well as being a source of considerable profit to the corps. Mr. Casey, who directs the band, also furnished the orchestra that played for the dancing. At intermission refreshments were furnished by Caterer Hardy and all helped to make it an enjoyable evening. The members of the Corps appeared in uniform and presented a natty if not nautical appearance. The officers were in dark blue and gold buttons, while the crew wore white uniforms. Emblems of the Corps and the stars and stripes were used to decorate the hall.

Candidates Being Discussed.

In a quiet way the office of Selectman, which will be vacant by the expiration of Geo. I. Doe's term in March, is being canvassed. There has been a few private caucuses,—perhaps the most important ones have been held above the local trains as business men have gone to and fro between their homes and business places in the city. Influential friends have approached S. Fred Hicks and he, if we are correctly informed, has finally consented to be a candidate if conditions do not change. Those interested to have him serve have approached Mr. Doe to learn if he would be a candidate for reelection, but he states positively to them he will not be. Howard W. Spurr has been named in our presence and there is no doubt of his ability or that his sterling business methods would be a great advantage applied to town affairs. Another candidate named and highly thought of is Frederick S. Mead. It is stated that perhaps the different elements of our town could concentrate more satisfactorily in making a choice of Alexander H. Seaver, a Past-Commander of Francis Gould Post 119, a man practically retired from business, therefore having plenty of time to devote to the office and be here at all times, who has property interests, is conservative and has practical common sense. The last named to us in this respect is that of Daniel Wyman, who has equal qualifications with the other gentleman, and although last may not be least.

Arlington Woman's Club.

An excellent attendance of the club assembled in Associates Hall, Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with the usual preliminaries and a song by Cowen entitled "Bridal March," sung by the Choral Class. Mr. Frederick Allen Whitney, secretary of the Society of Arts and Crafts, read a paper (it was termed a lecture) on the interests his society cultivates. It was chiefly a commentary on external things, rarely touching the intellectual and great principles of life and the secret well-spring of inspiration which art and craftsman should express. Art and crafts are supposed to cultivate individualism and be an expression of that which lies within the power of a man to conceive with his mind and execute with his fingers. The speaker told us the difference between manufactured and hand-made furniture, etc., but only gave us an inkling of what was the fundamental difference. We heard a "talk" on a similar subject Tuesday afternoon before the Women's Outlook Club of Lexington, by Miss Maud Summers and if the ladies of the Arlington Club would really learn the significance of this subject, or what may be made of it, we would suggest that she be invited to speak here. A brief report of a fraction of what she had to offer will be found under the head of "Lexington Outlook Club," published in another column. Mr. Whitney had some beautiful hand wrought silver and other articles that were exhibited at the close of the lecture.

Quite the most enjoyable feature of the meeting was the assembly about two serving tables in the banquet hall, where chocolate and its accompaniments were served by Mrs. Edw. A. Darling, Mrs. W. D. Cousins, Mrs. R. C. Clifford and Mrs. S. C. Bushnell. Mrs. Wm. H. Cutler was chairman of the committee of twenty-five providing for the spread. The tables were given the predominating touch of pink by the use of carnations and candle shades in this tone. The entire effect was charming.

We are requested by Mrs. Wolfe, president of the Woman's Club, to make a correction of a misprint in "The Federation Bulletin" regarding the mid-winter meeting of the Federation. It will take place at Woburn, Wednesday next, Feb. 8th.

Vernon St. At the business session delegates to the 14th continental congress in Washington, D. C., April 19, were elected. A very interesting paper was read by Dr. Frederick S. Piper, historian of the Lexington Historical Society, on "Lexington in the Revolution." That Dr. Piper, who succeeded Rev. Carlton Staples, is deeply interested in historic research and relies of the revolutionary period, was evinced by his paper read at this time. Mrs. Crosby showed, in connection with Dr. Piper's address, a steel engraving of Gen. George Washington, which bore the date "1793." She also exhibited a miniature of Joshua Simonds, her great-grandfather, and who captured the first gun taken from a British soldier in the Lexington fight. The gun is now in the Senate chamber at the State House. It was announced that the next regular meeting of the chapter will be held with Mrs. Crosby, Feb. 25, when Gen. Thomas R. Mathews will speak on "The American Volunteer Soldiers and the Minute-Men of 1775." A social hour followed Dr. Piper's address. Mrs. Herbert W. Drew served tea. He was engaged in sugar interests in the Island of Mauritius. He was in his 63d year. Mr. Robinson was a quiet but genial disposition, was a favorite among his school mates and friends of later life who always found him kind, courteous, and true to old friends and all present obligations. He leaves a pleasant memory for a wide circle of friends. Mr. Robinson married Mary E., daughter of Luke Childs, April 21, 1868, who with his brothers and sisters,—the Misses Francis M., Sarah E., Mrs. Edith Childs, Mr. Theo. P. and Wm. Robinson survive him, all but the last named having their homes in Lexington. The youngest brother has been engaged in business on the Pacific coast for many years and is now in the Island of Tahiti. "FOUND."

Odd Notice in Prominent Southern Paper of Interest to Arlington Residents.

One of the best known newspapers in the south is the "Guide" of Dunn, N. C. Its publisher, J. P. Pitman, sends us the following clipping with request to publish:-

"Found,—by the editor of the Guide, a bottle of Hyomel, the wonderful treatment that cures catarrh without stomach dosing. We can speak in highest praise of its remarkable power to cure and relieve catarrh of the head and throat. This mention is made, not as an advertisement, but in the interest of those who suffer the torture of that terrible disease, catarrh."

In sending the clipping, Mr. Pitman wrote the following letter:- "I enclose a little piece from my paper, printed to-day. You will see from this that I desire to push the selling of Hyomel as far as possible. I am using it in my own family and find that it gives the desired relief, so that I take pleasure in spreading far and near the knowledge of this sure relief for catarrh." O. W. Whittemore, in preparation for the catarrhal troubles of this season of the year, has ordered a large stock of Hyomel, and sells it under guarantee to refund the money if it does not relieve. The complete outfit costs but $1, and extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents. Ask him to show you the strong guarantee under which he sells it. This remarkable remedy medicates the air you breathe, soothes and healing the mucous membrane of the air passages, and making a complete cure of the worst case of catarrh.
